Army, Navy Need 1,221,000 More In '43

DRAFT CHIEF TESTIFIES ON FATHER DRAFT

Says 775,000 Non-Dads Fall 446,000 Short of Meeting Armed Forces Quota.

NAVY ASKS 533,000

Senators Give Ground After Hearing Testimony of Military Leaders.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The army and navy will require 1,221,000 more men during the last four months of this year, and there are only about 775,000 non-fathers available for the draft during that period, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey told congress today.

The deficiency of 446,000, Hershey testified before the senate military committee, apparently must be met from the pool of 5,586,000 married men of military age with children.

The chief of selective service appeared before the committee to give these statistics after high army and navy officials had voiced a stern "no" in response to the question whether congress should act to postpone or cancel the planned induction of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers beginning Oct. 1.

Hershey stated that the Oct. 1 draft order was issued "because we no longer had the assurance that in the manpower pool there remained sufficient men to meet our call" for September, October, November and December, without taking fathers.

The 3,412,000 men in class 4-F are being "constantly reworked," Hershey told the committee, but he said the possibility of recovering many physically fit men from this categoroy was slight unless the army and navy lowered present physical standards.

Neither did he believe, he said, that any great number could be obtained from the 1,715,000 deferred farmers or the 1,508,000 deferred because of their industrial occupations, without doing "great damage" to the war effort.

He asserted local boards under the father-draft program, "undoubtedly" would give thorough

PARADE EXHIBITS

Richland Farm Youths Display Crops, Livestock Today.

Ideal weather today favored the Richland county junior fair which had the county fairground all to itself for a day.

Exhibits of livestock, farm produce, poultry, and food and clothing were on the grounds early while the school display hall was the center of interest for pupils who exhibited educational displays. Free to the public, the fair was to close late this afternoon.

While it was primarily a rural youth fair, scores of Mansfielders were expected to view the work of the young people who have labored all summer to complete projects in time for the show. Prizes totaling several hundred dollars were to be awarded winners by the county fair board, sponsor of the junior fair.

Forts and RAF Team In Attack

Join to Smash Targets In Nazi-Held France During Night.

BULLETIN

LONDON —(AP)— American Flying Fortresses, following up an inaugural dusk raid on Hitler's Europe and probably the Allies' biggest night assault on the continent, bombed naval installations at Nantes in France today in their second foray in two days.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Berlin was bombed last night in a widespread Allied aerial assualt which included a heavy raid on a vital rubber factory at Montlucon in France and followed evening attacks on Paris air craft plants and surrounding French air fields by U. S. Eighth Air Force squadrons making their first dusk flight.

It was the first attack on Berlin since the pre-dawn hours of Sept. 4 and presumably was carried out by the RAF's swift Mosquito bombers which pummel the German capital between the saturation attacks by fleets of four-engined craft.

Other RAF bombers struck at additional targets in northwest Germany, the air ministry announced.

MANSFIELDER DIES IN SICILY

Paratrooper William Schrack Believed Killed In Early Stages of Invasion.

The name of Pfc. William H. Schrack today was added to the list of Mansfield soldiers who have paid the supreme sacrifice fighting in defense of their country.

Pvt. Schrack was killed on July 11 — his 30th birthday and the day Allied forces invaded the Mediterranean island of Sicily. A paratrooper, he apparently was with U. S. soldiers dropped behind enemy lines in the early stages of the campaign paving the way for a speedy Allied victory.

Schrack

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton B. Schrack, 214 Seventh avenue, he was inducted Feb. 11, 1942. He had been overseas since March. Pvt. Schrack received his basic training at Camp Wheeler, N. C.

Soldiers Charged Union Dues for Helping In Harvest

TRENTON, N. J. —(INS)— U. S. soldiers who were recruited from Fort Dix to aid in harvesting and processing the tomato crop were charged union dues under the check-off system by an AFL union, it was disclosed today.

The practice came to light following the exposure by Herbert J. Voorhees, president of the New Jersey Farm Bureau, in an address to 4,000 farmers at the New Jersey state fair in Trenton.

Several hundred soldiers working in the plants of the P. J. Ritter company, in Bridgeton and the Edgar F. Huff canneries in Swedesboro, were charged 25 cents per week for dues, by Local 56, of the Meat and Cannery Workers union, Voorhees disclosed.

Leon Schacter, business manager of the union, admitting that the dues had been collected from the soldiers, termed the attack as a "smear against union labor."

COUNTY RIDES WITH NATION IN BOND DRIVE

$2,546,382 RAISED HERE

14 Days Remain For County To Reach $6,060,000 Fund; Women Active.

Closing the first week of the Third War Loan drive yesterday Richland countians passed the one third mark with a total of $2,546,382.75.

With 14 days remaining to reach the $6,060,000 goal set for the county, bond sales were less than $500,000 below the half-way point. A report from Washington today showed Richland county paralleling the national effort which today was slightly over one third of the 15 billion dollar goal.

Determined to "do it again" the women's division of the county war bond committee today was busy selling bonds to buy at least two PT boats at an estimated cost of $145,000 each.

Mrs. Louis J. Ott, chairman, said today sufficient funds had already been raised for the purchase of one of the boats. She urged all persons interested in helping the women with their drive to designate their purchases of series E, F, or G bonds for that purpose.

Making a report for the first three days of their drive to sell $400,000 worth of bonds to Mansfield buyers, Mansfield merchants today had sold $117,730 in bonds last Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Chairman W. L. Faulkner said the report was only a partial one.

A novel bond "auction" at Hedges school yesterday netted more than $350 toward the boat fund. Another plan, that of selling bonds to buy army equipment will be sponsored by the women of the townships and villages dur-

WATCH GARDENS

Jack Frost's Due For Visit Soon, Weatherman Warns.

Better cover your tomatoes, peppers, and flowers if you don't want them nipped by Jack Frost who is due for a return visit Saturday morning, the weatherman warned today.

Relaxing censorship restrictions to warn of the threat to crops, the weather bureau said today that the mercury will drop tonight and Friday night with frost likely Saturday morning in the northern half of Ohio.

Light frost was reported last week in the Mansfield area, but it caused no damage to farm and garden crops which are late this year. The temperature at noon today was 64 as compared with a high of 78 yesterday.

Patterson Raps Dad-Draft Bill

Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson, recently returned from the South Pacific battlefront, dramatically warned congress to reject bills to defer drafting of fathers and called for conscription of labor for war industries. Witness before the senate military affairs committee, Patterson opposed the bill by Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana to postpone father-inductions for the remainder of the year. Patterson is shown, right, with Wheeler at the hearing.

Legion of Merit Award New Honor for Brig. Gen. Lahm

The nation's most recently established decoration, the Legion of Merit, had been conferred today upon Brigadier General Frank P. Lahm, U. S. army retired, Mansfield pioneer airman.

Gen. Lahm, who flew with the Wright brothers, and who was the first airplane and balloon pilot in the army, was presented with the award yesterday in colorful ceremonies at Morris Memorial Field, Governors Island, N. Y.

Gen. Lahm, who was chief of aviation of the First Army from Dec. 14, 1940 until Oct. 1941, retired from active service in November 1941 after reaching the retirement age of 64. He held a temporary commission of major general at the time he left the service.

The Legion of Merit was awarded to the general "for exceptionally meritorious conduct in performance of outstanding service" while on the staff of the First Army, a release from headquarters of the First Army said.

"By his great store of technical knowledge, many years of flying experience, intelligent grasp of the air problems of a large command, devotion to duty, untiring energy, organizational ability and his successful solution of the numerous problems incident to the proper organization and co-ordination of aviation units, he made a distinguished contribution to

Mansfield, Shelby, Plymouth Legion Posts Seat Officers

New officers of the Mansfield, Shelby, and Plymouth posts of the American Legion were installed at the McVey post home by Harry Eaton, Ashland, commander in District 5.

Approximately 250 Legionnaires attended the annual ceremonies during which State Legion Commander Ross Williams of Oak Hill was the principal speaker. James Carrigan presented a gift ring to C. O. Lister, retiring commander of McVey post, in behalf of the post members.

Russell E. Moore was installed as commander of the Mansfield post to succeed Lister. Other new officers of McVey post include James Brownescombe as senior vice commander; John W. Graham, junior vice commander; R. W. Jones, adjutant; William Schnug, finance officer; Rev. Grover E. Swoyer and Rev. Peter Young, chaplains; John Stout, historian; and Walter Hill, sergeant-at-arms.

L. J. Bookmyer is the new commander of O'Brien post at Shelby. Assisting him will be Ralph Johnston, vice commander; Merle Berkley, adjutant; Ray Laser, sergeant-at-arms, and Rev. D. Bruce Young, chaplain.

FIVE OTHERS ACCUSED IN MAIL FRAUD

Ex-Massachusetts Governor Cited For Operation of Contract Brokerage.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The Department of Justice announced today that Rep. James M. Curley (D) Mass., and five others had been indicted in connection with the investigation of an alleged "government war contract brokerage racket."

The justice department said that Curley, a former governor of Massachusetts and mayor of Boston and five others, members of a firm of "construction engineers" was charged with "violating the mail fraud statute in the operation of a government war contract brokerage racket." The department said the indictment was returned today in Washington.

The announcement said that the six were indicted on "21 counts" and those named are, or were, officers and directors of the Engineers Group, Inc., with offices in Washington, Boston, and Chicago.

The justice department said that Curley was president and director of the firm until Dec. 29, 1941.

Others named, according to the announcement were:

Marshall J. Fitzgerald, Washington, secretary and director.

James G. Fuller, of Kingston, N. Y., and Washington, executive vice-president and director, who is "now serving a five-year term in a federal penitentiary for sending fraudulent securities through the mails."

Donald Wakefield Smith, of Washington, treasurer, vice-president, assistant secretary and director who is "an attorney and a former member of the National Labor Relations board."

The indictment, based on evidence assembled by the FBI, "charges that orally and in various brochures and correspondence sent through the United States mail between June 20, 1941 and Feb. 20, 1942, the defendants falsely and fraudulently represent themselves as being an experienced and competent firm of con-

BIGGEST QUOTA

26,101 Tons of Scrap Needed From County, WPB Says.

Mansfield industrial firms and individuals faced a major challenge today in the largest salvage quota ever set up for the area.

Industrial firms in the Mansfield area were asked by O. C. Rogers, regional WPB salvage chief, to supply 26,101 tons of scrap metal during the last half of the year. The area, which includes Richland, Ashland, Crawford and Knox counties, sent 24,190 tons of scrap to the mills during the first six months of the year.

A campaign sponsored by the civilian defense war services will get under way in Mansfield and Madison township next week when every household will be asked to give its share of tin cans, paper and cardboard boxes, waste fats, and silk and old nylon hosiery. The hosiery should be turned in to stores by Sept. 30, while the tin cans will be collected next week at homes in the city and collection depots in Madison township.

Yanks Holding Front, Launch New Offensive

Drive Nazis Back In Altavilla Sector As Battle for Beachhead Rages Into Eighth Day With Planes, Naval Guns Hurling Steel Into Nazi Positions.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa—The American Fifth army, after eight days of bloody fighting against German counter-attacks, has secured the vital beachhead at Salerno, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark announced today.

"Additional troops are landing every day and we are here to stay," said Gen. Clark in a special order of the day to his troops. "Not one foot of ground will be given up."

The British Eighth army is advancing, "and in a matter of hours its presence will be felt by the enemy," the announcement continued.

At the same time, units of the Fifth army holding the southern sector of the bridgehead took the offensive after four days of savage battering from the Germans and drove the Nazis back between the junction of the Rivers Sele and Calore north of Altavilla.

The announcement of the successful swing in this first phase of the Fifth army's invasion of the Italian mainland came after an earlier anouncement from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters that "our troops have strengthened their hold on the beaches."

Allied battleships, thundering salvos into German hill defenses, and thousands of warplanes blasting at the enemy had helped to turn back the German threat.

Gen. Clark's Fifth army, composed equally of British and Americans, was now the largest Allied force engaged in a single battle since the Mediterranean war started, and it was supported again yesterday by more than 2,000 sorties flown by the powerful northwestern African air force and separate raids by Middle East heavy bombers.

The entire Allied air force thus joined the struggle for the second straight day and hurled hundreds of tons of explosives upon the Germans' positions with earth-shaking barrages.

With unchallengeable control of the sea, the Allies exploited the advantage to the utmost by moving their mobile naval batteries up close to the blackened, smoking beaches and hurling tons of screaming steel into the teeth of the Germans. The British battleships Valiant and Warspite with their 15-inch rifles joined in the bombardment.

Gen. Clark toured the fiery arena, cheering begrimed Tommies and doughboys with his presence at the advanced positions where he told the troops that every soldier must fight to the last and that there must be no withdrawals.

Casualties in this seven-day battle have been the heaviest of any in the Mediterranean fighting.

At least four German divisions had been identified in the action against the 27-mile front, and more were being brought up. It was probable that as many as five had been employed in the all-out effort to smash the Allied grip.

The magnitude and fierceness of the battle undoubtedly was draining German strength even more rapidly than Marshal Erwin Rommel's effort in Africa.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgom-

TAKE CITY: Russians Hurl Germans From Novorossisk

(By International News Service)

MOSCOW—Sea-borne Red army troops today climaxed a five-day battle along the shores of the Black sea and stormed into the big naval base at Novorossisk, hurling the German invaders out of the city.

Capture of Novorossisk, announced by Premier Josef Stalin in a special order of the day—his second with 24 hours—closed still tighter the ring snapping shut around German troops in the Black sea region, threatening them with annihilation or the highly hazardous alternative of attempting an escape over the Kerch Straits.

For five days Red army troops who had been landed from naval vessels behind the north Caucasian city stormed at its approaches in conjunction with assaults by other divisions in front of the big base. A final terrific assault unleashed early today hurled the Germans out of the city and yielded its important naval and manufacturing facilities to the Russians.

Stalin's special order, which came only 24 hours after a similar statement had announced the occupation of Nezhin on the railroad to Kiev, said:

"Troops of the North Caucasian front in co-operation with warships of the Black sea fleet, by a bold attack from land simultaneously with an invasion from the sea after five days of fierce fighting today captured Novorossisk by assault."

Far to the north, other units meanwhile pushed westward toward the Ukranian capital of OSSINING, N. Y. —(AP)— The Maryknoll Catholic mission at Wuchow, China, was destroyed and its pastor, the Rev. Russell Sprinkle of Middletown, O., was wounded seriously by a Japanese bombing attack Sept. 4, the Maryknoll Fathers said today.

The Fathers said a cable informed them the raid killed and injured hundreds of persons and left the city a mass of flames.

DEATH TRAP: Japs Sealed In At Lae by Battering Advance

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The navy reported today that Japanese planes bombed the Lunga Point area on Guadalcanal last Monday night for the first time in two months, causing minor damage. On the same night a Japanese bomber attacked American installations on Russell island, approximately 52 miles northwest, but caused no damage.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC—Backing the Japanese into a death trap, Allied jungle troops have battered through pillboxes, trenches and machinegun nests with the aid of artillery and planes to bring nearer the fall of the big air base of Lae, New Guinea.

East of Lae, Australians are only two miles from the center of the coastal town and are about to overrun the prized Malahang airdrome.

On the west where the intricate defenses were breached after hours of fighting, another force in the Markham valley is only five miles away.

To the south, Americans and Australians who annihilated most of a Japanese garrison in capturing the airdrome and harbor town of Salamaua, left behind patrols to hunt down the surviving stragglers and moved in force more than half way along the 18 miles of jungle trail separating the two Huon gulf bases.

The Japanese, tricked by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's strategy into believing the main Allied push would be made below Salamau, have offered scarcely any opposition until now to pincer forces which landed from the sea above Lae Sept. 4 and from transport planes behind Lae Sept. 5.

Lists 7 Points In U. S.-British Plan For Peace

EVANSTON, Ill. — (U.P.) — The plan President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill agree upon for peace and world order consists of seven principal points, according to Dr. Kenneth Colegrove, professor of political science at Northwestern university. He believes these points are:

(1) The final peace settlement will be a negotiated peace instead of a dictated peace, negotiations being made not with the Fascist or Nazi elements but with the representative government set up in each country.

(2) The United Nations will retain a monopoly of weapons, forcing disarmament upon Germany, Japan and Italy for all time.

(3) The United Nations will maintain in international police force to crush aggression perhaps for a century.

(4) There will be a new international organization for the maintenance of peace and for collective action against aggressor nations.

(5)—The U. S. and Great Britain will play the leading role in the council of the United Nations, trying to get maximum co-operation from Russia and China.

(6) After occupation of enemy homelands by an international police force, such occupation gradually will be relaxed in favor of representative governments established there.

(7) The final peace treaty will favor elimination of economic barriers and the opening of natural resources to all nations on equal terms.

Regains Sight, Remembers To Repay Friends

ST. PAUL, Minn. — (U.P.) — Through the good-heartedness of people, some of whom he had never met, Pasquale Rotundi is re-discovering the world of sight again after four years of blindness.

Joe De Beer, secretary of the United Blind of Minnesota, started matters rolling when Rotundi came to him and said he had hope that an operation might give him back his sight.

On De Beer's advice, Rotundi went to Rochester, where a doctor Joe knew examined Rotundi, and it was as Rotundi had hoped. Adding to the glad news the doctor said he was willing to perform the operation without charge if Rotundi would pay hospital and other incidental costs.

That called for exactly $150 more than Rotundi had, so he went back to his blind friend, De Beer. Joe swiftly rounded up four businessmen and put it up to them like this: How much is a man's sight worth- They thought it was worth $25 apiece. The rest was collected from fellow students at St. Paul Vocational high school, where Joe was training for a war plant job.

Not long after, Rotundi came back from the hospital. His sight is a long way from normal, but he can see enough to take care of a little down payment on one debt he owes. It's a big thrill for Pasquale to help friends find their way about; he remembers the helping hands extended him during his four years of darkness.

COW TILTS WITH CAR

HENDERSON, Tex.—(U.P.)—Collision of two rationed items at Henderson resulted in little damage to either. A cow collided with an automobile. The car was dented slightly, the steaks were shaken up.

Wild hevea seeds were taken from Brazil to London in 1876 and germinated in Kew Gardens to produce rubber seedlings.

This year—more than twice as many people are demanding Boscul Coffee!

JIM: The Missus makes it—same as always—but she's switched brands! She discovered this Boscul when rationing came along. It's so much richer it sure made those coupons stretch. And it taught us just how good coffee can be!

DAVE: It's richer all right. One whiff of that aroma and you know you're in for a good he-man cup of coffee.

JIM: Tell you what makes the big difference, Dave—the expensive mountain coffees. Boscul blends 'em in with a free hand because they add a whale of a lot of flavor.

DAVE: Ummm—I'll say they do! My wife's sure going to hear about this . . . because I'm going to be demanding Boscul from now on!

Because so many people are demanding Boscul Coffee these days, your grocer may sometimes be out of it. But keep asking—that rich flavor and mellow aroma are worth waiting for!

PROCESSES HUGE CROP FOR ARMY

MILTON, Pa.—(U.P.)—Pennsylvania's first cannery, and the second in the nation to earn the Army-Navy "E" award, will process 14,000 tons of tomatoes this season, most of them for the armed forces.

J. Ray Keiser, field supervisor of the Chief Boy-ar-dee plant here, said that 530 farmers have planted an all-time record of 2,100 acres of the Rutgers variety and that 500 of the 2,100 pickers required have been recruited through a local minister, Rev. Clair R. James.

In addition to packing millions of pounds of Type C Ration for the armed forces, the cannery is preparing cvinaya tushonka, to be shipped to the Russians.

Indications of the canning industry's growth in Pennsylvania, which boosted the state in 10 years from minor ranking to fourth place in the nation, the Chef Boyar-dee plant in 1943 is packing ten times the quantities put up in 1939.

Wrens frequently build nests that are never occupied.

DRAMATIC STORY OF CALIFORNIA CONQUEST TOLD

New Book at Library, 'Golden Shore,' Describes Period Just Before Gold Rush.

Among the books now being released at Mansfield public library is GOLDEN SHORE by George Armin Shaftel, a dramatic story of the conquest of California beginning on that fateful day in 1840 when the Spanish authorities arrested every American and English non-citizen and shipped them all to the dungeons of Tepic Prison in Old Mexico.

Escaping from the prison, Michael O'Cain, valorous Yankee shipmaster, and Lieut. Arch Gillespie of the U. S. Marines return to Monterey. Involved in their destinies is lovely Mary Marquan. The book paints a vivid picture of the tension and drama of Pacific politics—and a panorama of California just before the Gold Rush.

A MAN OF MALICE LANDING by Dorothy James Roberts is the story of Marius Robinson, born in Malice Landing, Ohio—of his life there and of his work there and in Pittsburgh; of his final return home to Malice Landing; of the people he knew who made or failed to make, an impression on his career and his character; and of the philosophy of life which he evolves. The action is swift-moving and there is a satisfying romance.

DANCING SAINTS by Ann George Leslie is a powerful novel dealing with the losing struggle of a Shaker community against destruction, both from within its own ranks and from the menace of the outside world. It is also the story of Orville Thatcher and how he found himself split between his love for Thankful and his desire to maintain the old Shaker way of life.

OTHER FICTION: . . . AND A FEW MARINES — Thomason, Jr.; ANCHORAGE—Bassett; YOU CAN'T ESCAPE—Cuthrell.

THE TWO MARSHALS by Philip Guedalla is the life story of Marshal Bazaine and Marshal Petain. Between them they span French history from Waterloo to the present — and, put together, their careers expose a side of French political thought which has startling, even frightening connections. The book has a threefold appeal, as biography, as history, and as a sidelight on national philosophy. Mr. Guedalla is the author of "Mr. Churchill."

The day before war was declared, Squadron Leader William Simpson took off in his Battle Bomber from an airdrome in England for a secret base in France. Eight months later, he was shot down and terribly wounded. In his book, ONE OF OUR PILOTS IS SAFE, the author tells the story of his experiences, and of his courageous fight against pain and despair. And he tells, also, a moving story of a France, taken but not lost, seen intimately from the inside.

THE SPY IN AMERICA by George S. Bryan is the surprising and gripping story of espionage in America from the Revolutionary War to the end of World War I—a completely authentic account of the spy at work in many guises—as civilian intelligence agent, informer, secret emissary, etc. In addition the book turns up all kinds of surprises along the way, correcting myths and folklore and half-fictional errors.

DOCTORS AWEIGH by Rear Admiral Charles M. Oman (M.C.) U. S. N. is the thrilling, well-told story of what our Navy Medical Corps can do and has done in action, portrayed by many gripping and dramatic scenes which show clearly the work these men of science and mercy perform in their daily routine.

OTHER NON-FICTION: EMPLOYEE TRAINING — Cooper; WAGE STABILIZATION AND INFLATION — Johnsen; NEW EYES FOR INVISIBLES—Jones; STEEL—Campbell; RUNNING A MACHINE SHOP — Colvin and Stanley; PRACTICAL SHOP MATHEMATICS (2 vols. — Elementary and Advanced) — Wolfe and Phelps; LEAD A SONG—Wilson; JOHN COTTON DANA—Hadley; FINDING YOUR WAY IN LIFE — Weston; ECONOMIC HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE—Bogart and Kemmerer.

TYPES 60 WPM WITH ONE HAND

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(U.P.)—The army is wondering how good Jeraldine Cook would be if she had both arms.

Jeraldine is one of Kelly Field's fastest typists and she doesn't think it unusual that she can type at the rate of 60 words a mintue.

Discouraged at first, she kept at it and worked out her own typing system, besides learning shorthand.

THEATERS

New Male Finds.

"So Proudly We Hail" showing at the Ohio theater brings to the screen two rising young actors who are rapidly replacing old names and faces among romantic male leads. They are Sonny Tufts and George Reeves. In this story of the courage of the nurses on Bataan and the men they loved, Sonny Tufts plays a Marine called "Kansas" who is in love with Paulette Goddard. George Reeves is the heart interest of Claudette Colbert, marries her in a tunnel on Corregidor and honeymoons with her in a fox-hole.

Bustle Steals Scene.

A "Bird cage" bustle, indespensable to sirens of a bygone day, cost Mary Beth Hughes a scene in 20 Century-Fox's "The Ox-Bow Incident" current at the Madison theater. One scene called for her to ride a horse but after unsuccessfully trying to mount the horse and manage the bustle at the same time the actress decided it was an impossibility. So the scene had to be taken out. Miss Hughes is featured in support of Henry Fonda. Co-attraction is "Gals Inc." a musical comedy starring Leon Errol, Harriet Hilliard and Grace McDonald.

Wears Eight Outfits.

Myrna Loy is making her feminine fans "Thin Man" conscious with her new Kalloch-designed wardrobe of "Shadow of the Thin Man," currently playing at the Ritz theater. Among the eight outfits she wears in the new picture are a white, translucent negligee edged with Irish lace over a foundation of cocoa biege, which gives the general effect of a suntanned skin. But when she steps out to face the world with William Powell, no one could claim that she belongs by a fireside. In immaculately tailored clothes, she would be at home from the Colony Restaurant in New York to the Women's Club platform in Tuscaloosa, as an example of the most chic, yet conservative wife. Second feature is "A Stranger in Town" with Frank Morgan and Jean Rogers.

Perhaps this would be a good time to warn high school athletes that they cannot jump from one school to another and expect to take part in athletics unless they succeed in getting their parents to make the jump with them.

And it might also be a good time to warn coaches of migratory athletes to get an eligibility ruling from the Ohio High School Athletic association before using their new players.

Unless a transfer student is living with one or both parents in his new school district, he is not eligible for athletic competition until after a year of residence. Parents must also move to the new school district to make a transfer student eligible, under O. H. S. A. A. rules.

What brings up the question? The transfer of Pete Bautz, football lineman, and Joe Radio, basketball and football player, from Mansfield high school to Madison, and the return to Ironton of Gene Haas, Mansfield tackle, whose parents moved here this summer.

Only exception to the parent rule made in recent years by State Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend has been in cases where the parents move from one city and the boy stays on in the school he has been attending, while living with relatives.

The O. H. S. A. A. rule on transfer and migratory athletes clearly says that such boys who have been members of teams, or candidates for teams, are not eligible for athletics until after a year of residence, unless they are living with one or both parents in their new school district. Use of such players makes the school liable to suspension from competition in the association.

Mansfield high school coaches are not greatly concerned over the loss of Bautz and Radio, but they admit the loss of Haas really hurts.

They are concerned over the migration of their athletes to Madison. "We don't want our boys to get the idea they can jump to Madison and play football and basketball whenever they become dissatisfied out here," declared Coach Paul Snyder. "Their parents must move to the Madison school district with them to make them immediately eligible. Otherwise they will have to be in school a year at Madison before they can play.

"And we don't want to see Madison get in Dutch with the O. H. S. A. A. by attempting to use these boys."

Yes, there were Mansfield boys, Harold Hammer and Doc Poston, on Madison teams last year, and the two years before that.

But they were never members of, nor candidates for the Mansfield high school teams, and the rule did not apply in their case, whether or not they played in their first year at Madison.

I imagine the rule was passed in the first place to keep the big schools from raiding the small ones for athletic material. But it also protects the big ones from similar raids by the small ones. I do not mean to hint that Madison has been raiding Mansfield high school. The boys, as far as I can learn, went to Madison of their own free will, and on their own initiative.

It isn't a pleasant subject, but I think it's a good thing to bring up before New London tomorrow, and other schools on Madison's schedule, protest the use of any Madison players.

Coach Jeff DeHaven of Madison said today he is under the impression that Bautz is eligible for tomorrow's game at New London, but that he intended to make a thorough check of his status today.

"I understood that Bautz was an exchange student, and not a mere transfer student," said DeHaven, "which would leave his eligibility status the same as though he were still going to Mansfield high."

Mansfield and Madison high schools have an exchange arrangement whereby some students in the Mansfield district living closer to Madison high school are permitted to go to Madison, in exchange for others in Madison township who go to Mansfield high.

Yankees Win Eight Straight

Just Coasting To Flag In American League.

By JUDSON BAILEY

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE New York Yankees are riding the crest of an eight-game winning streak but the team is just coasting.

Although the campaign has two weeks to run and they haven't clinched the pennant yet, the Yankees before games are autographing baseballs by the dozens and striving to round up series tickets for friends.

Also before games, Charley Keller and Nick Etten, the heavy armament of the Bombers, are taking special batting practice to get ready for the big test against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Yesterday Keller hit for 20 minutes before most of the players were on the field and then, when the tussle with the Philadelphia Athletics got under way, he hit his 27th home run with two aboard in the first inning.

Arthur Beauregard (Bud) Metheny hit his second homer in two days and Joe Gordon notched his 14th of the season while Hank Borowy pitched six-hit ball to overpower the A's 7-3.

About this time James J. Carroll, St. Louis betting commissioner and nationally known odds-maker, disclosed he had established the Yankees as overwhelming favorites in the series, quoting 13 to 20 against New York and 13 to 10 against St. Louis.

The Redbirds, although idle, moved within three games of clinching the National league pennant when weather forced cancellation of the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers' final game with Boston.

In the only senior circuit activity of the day the Phillies divided a double-header with the New York Giants, the Phils winning the first 1-0 on Ray Hamrick's triple, and the Giants bagging the second game 6-3.

Washington strengthened its hold on second place in the American league by shutting out the Boston Red Sox 5-0 while Cleveland dropped another decision to the St. Louis Browns 4-2. Detroit downed the Chicago White Sox 8 to 2.

Bivins Beats Corp. Bettina

Takes 10-Round Nod Over Soldier Fighter.

By LARRY SMITH

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Corp. Melio Bettina wouldn't say so today, but it's a safe guess he's convinced army life and Jimmy Bivins don't mix.

Before dropping a 10-round decision to the Cleveland Negro last night, the New York military policeman declared the army had made him a better fighter and vowed he'd prove it at Bivins' expense.

"I'm not talking," was Bettina's tired reply to questioners who invaded his dressing room after the scrap.

The 14,940 customers who contributed $52,650 to witness the skirmish in Cleveland's Lakefront stadium didn't see the same Bettina who southpawed his way to an easy triumph over Bivins in November of 1941.

After a slow opening heat, Bettina drove Bivens to the ropes with a solid left hook in the second—his best round of the evening. Referee Jackie Davis awarded Bivins the third because of a low punch but Jimmy had warmed up to his work and didn't need the assist.

Bivins staggered Bettina against the ropes with a trio of rights in the sixth, waged a double fisted offensive in the seventh and drew blood from the Corporal's nose in the eighth.

In stretching his own victory string to 13, Bivins handed Bettina his first loss in 15 engagements as a heavyweight. The Clevelander weighed 182½, three pounds less than Bettina.

Freddie Pope, Sammy Angott's featherweight protege from Columbus, O., decisioned Eddie Scott, Detroit negro, in an eight-round preliminary. Pope 121, Scott 122.

In another eight-rounder, Angelo Callura, claimant to the Canadian lightweight title, lost a decision to Harry Teaney of Cleveland. Teaney came in at 138 and had a four-pound advantage.

Fitzy Fitzpatrick, 163, Cleveland, slugged out a six-round decision over Billy Bengal, of Detroit.

Frankie Janiro of Youngstown was knocked out by Berry Wright of Cleveland in the final heat of their scheduled four-round opener. Wright spotted the 150-pound Janiro four rounds.

SOLD TO BRAVES

INDIANAPOLIS —(INS)— Catcher Stewart Hotterth of the Indianapolis Indians today became the property of the Boston Braves. The transfer from the American Association to the National league club was consummated for an undisclosed amount of cash and two players who will report next spring.

WINDY CITY SERIES PASSED UP THIS YEAR

CHICAGO —(INS)— By apparent common consent and without benefit of formal announcement, the city series between the Chicago White Sox and Cubs passed from the sports parade today.

After it was learned Cubs officials and players reserved tickets for the world series, General Manager Jim Gallagher told reporters to draw their own conclusions regarding the city affair.

Victory Loop Opens Season

Tony Gerger Paces Keglers With 580.

Victory bowling league opened its season last night at Colony alleys with ten teams in action, but ready to increase the membership to 12 teams next week.

Tony Gerger took scoring honors for the opener with a 580 total and high game of 204. Colony alleys had team honors with a 2309 total and high game of 835.

N. C. O. League Has Election Meeting

GALION — A pre-season football meeting was held at Hotel Talbott, here, Tuesday night, when 19 faculty managers and coaches of the North Central Ohio league were present. Mt. Vernon was the only member of the league not represented.

Principal E. E. Gerhart of Bucyrus was elected president of the league, with Sidney Boyd of Ashland as vice president. E. R. Pickering of Galion had been chosen secretary last spring.

Last spring there was some discussion as to whether the league would be broken up due to wartime restrictions, but the six teams that will remain in the league this year are: Galion, Bucyrus, Marion Harding, Shelby, Ashland, and Mt. Vernon.

Ohio Hunters to Get Ammunition

COLUMBUS — (INS)— Ammunition for Ohio's 1943 squirrel hunters will be available soon, State Conservation Commissioner Don Waters announced today.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service informed Waters the ammunition would be on the market as soon as manufacturers could get the shot into the hands of the jobbers and from the jobbers, in turn, into the hands of dealers.

An order withholding ammunition from most civilians was issued last May by the WPB. An amendment was added that specifically prohibited sportsmen from obtaining ammunition prior to Oct. 1 or after Nov. 15.

Plan All-Star Baseball Tour

Final plans for the overseas tour of two all-star baseball teams, chosen from the big leagues, were completed in Washington at a conference between war department officials and baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis. There will be 18 men on each team with a manager from the American and National leagues. Two umpires also will make the trip. Landis is shown, left, with Maj. Gen. A. D. Surles, director of the war department bureau of public relations.

DuPont relays the results of the first Moroccan open tourney Aug. 14-15, and an amateur-pro event two weeks later. Fireman Johnson, former Hinsdale, Ill., pro, won them both. . . . He shot 78-72—150 in the open over a course that "was built inside a race track and up to two months ago was a camp for our troops" and playing with golf balls which, DuPont says, "some caddies at home would throw away as useless." . . . In the pro-am tourney Herb teamed with Victor Bellincioni, Moroccan banker, and they turned in a card of 65-62—127. . . . Even the Pasha of Marrakech and his son, Si Ahmed Glaoui, played—but, DuPont asks, why can't they get some good golf balls in Africa?" Jack Dugger Leads Bucks

Ex-Tyger To Captain Ohio State Gridders.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Lanky Jack Dugger, the former Canton McKinley and Mansfield high school lad, has been elected captain of Ohio State university's football team, Coach Paul Brown announced today.

The big 189-pound, six-foot-three athlete who played tackle on the 1942 team and now is at left end succeeds Charles (Chuck) Csuri, captain-elect now in the army.

Choice of Dugger as captain of the Buckeyes apparently was a happy one with all of the squad. Dugger, who wears contact lenses, was selected because of his previous experience, all-around ability, and his general leadership qualities.

Dugger is a junior and this year marks the third under the Brown system. The former Canton star played on the freshman team of 1941.

Bartuneks Lose To Detroit Club

YOUNGSTOWN—(AP)—The 17-team field which began play in the 30th annual amateur baseball federation tournament was narrowed to four today, and Detroit's defending champion auto club is the only one as yet undefeated.

Detroit is paired with once-beaten Waterbury, Conn., in today's schedule of the two-defeats-and-out tourney. Today's other game is between the Cleveland Bartunek Clothiers and Atlanta, Ga.'s Ordnance depot.

Cleveland was defeated last night by the 1942 champions, 9-8, when Detroit's Leo McKenna blasted a two-run double in the ninth inning.

The Ordnance team whipped the Hoosiers 3-1. Waterbury's Victory was a 1-0 affair.

PHILS BREAK RECORDS FOR HOME ATTENDANCE

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — The Phillies today had broken all their previous records for attendance and club profits upon conclusion of their final home stand at Shibe park.

Attendance at yesterday's double-header with New York Giants brought the 1943 season total to 466,876 paid customers, approximately twice last year's number.

Rams Crippled For Opener

Tygers Given Drill on Defensive Play.

It will be a crippled team of Madison high school Rams that Coach Bob (Jeff) DeHaven takes to New London tomorrow afternoon for the opening game of the season.

The practice scrimmage last week with Ashland high school gave the Rams some valuable experience, but may have spoiled their chances of giving their new coach a winner in his first game.

Dick Bader, veteran halfback injured in the Ashland scrimmage, "may be able to play part of tomorrow's game," DeHaven said.

"But Dick Eccles, husky halfback from last year's reserve team, is definitely out of action for the New London contest," the Madison mentor reported. "Eccles has a sprained ankle.

"And Joe Harfman, moved from guard to quarterback this season, also may play only part of the game. He has a pulled muscle.

"Outside of that we're in pretty good shape, and I expect the Rams to give a good account of themselves," DeHaven declared.

Meanwhile Mansfield high school's Tygers were getting in their final "licks" in preparation for their opening game at Marion Saturday night.

Coach Paul Snyder gave the entire practice period yesterday to defense against all possible offensive formations including the "T" formation.

A short defensive drill the day before convinced the Tyger tutor that his boys needed more of the same kind of practice. Shifty Bill Dent got away for a number of long gains against the first team, showing the Tygers' need for heads-up work on the defense.

"You can win ball games with savage, heads-up play on defense as well as by your work on offense," Snyder told the Tygers before yesterday's practice.

Brewers Lengthen Lead by Half Game

(By Associated Press)

Defeating Minneapolis 7-6 while second place Indianapolis was idle, Milwaukee last night lengthened its American association lead to three and one-half games with only five more contests to play.

Kansas City moved into sixth place by taking a double bill from the cellar-dwelling St. Paul Saints 2-0 and 3-2. Louisville defeated Columbus 6-3 in 15 innings.

The Indianapolis-Toledo game was postponed.

The Pittsburgh Pirates have purchased Elwin (preacher) Roe from Columbus, southpaw pitcher who has won 14 and lost six games this year and who leads the association with 125 strikeouts.

Indians Drop All Three Games to St. Louis Club

History Repeats Itself as Browns Wreck Tribe's Hopes.

CLEVELAND—(AP)— Cleveland's Indians are back home today, with an open date in which to rest from a three-game drubbing administered by the St. Louis Browns that dropped them out of second place.

The tribesmen make their final appearance before the home fans this week-end, opening a four-game series with Detroit Friday night.

The Brownies took a 4-2 decision yesterday, sweeping the Indians' final St. Louis series. Two years ago the Browns staged a late-season splurge against the Indians, paving Detroit's path to the world series.

Al Zarilla, rookie outfielder, batted the Browns to victory yesterday, when he blasted a three-run homer in the seventh inning, breaking a 1-1 deadlock.

Mel Harder pitched six-hit ball and tribal batsmen collected nine from Al Hollingsworth.

Outfielder Wil Byrnes' error set the stage for the first Indian tally. When he dropped Buddy Rosar's long fly for a double in the seventh, Rosar went to third on Mickey Rocco's sacrifice and scored on a fly by Russ Peters.

Rosar singled home the second Cleveland marker in the eighth, after Roy Cullenbine and Oris Hockett walked.

* * *

The first St. Louis run came in the fourth, when Vernon Stephens walked, advanced on a single by Byrnes, and crossed the plate on a long fly by Mark Christman.

Big League Tour Set Up

Best Players Will Be Selected For Series.

By BUCKY O'CONNOR

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Japs took to baseball a few years ago and now baseball is "taking after" the Japs.

It's going to transport a bit of America to the service men who are slugging it out with the Nips in the Pacific war one.

Approval of the tour was announced by army officials in Washington yesterday, but the personnel of the two 18-man squads representing the American and National leagues has not been chosen.

Baseball commissioner K. M. Landis said he assumed the players would be selected by a vote of the managers in each league. That affords some interesting speculation.

Will the managers settle for the 1943 all-star lineups? If so there'll be several American leaguers who could feel mightily displeased. Of the current 10 leading hitters in the junior circuit eight were not all-star selections. Only Luke Appling of Chicago, present leader, and George Case of Washington, made this year's all-star squad.

10 batters failed to make the grade last July.

Incidently, Appling, manager Jimmy Dykes and 18 other White Sox, along with 21 Chicago Cubs, including Manager Jimmy Wilson, have volunteered for service with all-stars. This was considered a fair indication of how most major leaguers feel about the jaunt, which will follow the world's series.

* * *

While there was a suggestion that each club in both leagues have a representative on the squads, Landis said this would not necessarily be the case. His point is that the teams will be selected to give servicemen a taste of real big league ball and should comprise the best available talent regardless of other considerations.

League presidents and club owners will choose the two managers.

Cincinnati—(AP)—This being the fourth straight day the Cincinnati Reds have nothing to do, a deal of harmless thumb-chawing is going on for lack of tangible developments of the diamond.

Among other matters, some of the boys are speculating about the future of Bill McKechnie, who came to this town in 1938 to haul the Reds out of last place. He managed them to fourth place that year, first place in 1939, a world championship in 1940, and first division since then.

All in all, it's a credible record for any major league manager, and better than some compiled by gentlemen who make more noise than Mr. McK, who has been thrown out of games only a couple of times in the six years.

It seems his three-year contract runs out this year and for the sake of argument, if nothing else, there are suggestions that he has been here a long time. He has his detractors who swear they could do better with a team of grade school laddies than he has done with the Reds.

But, in the absence of anything but the ever-present smile of contentment in the front office, it might be well to consider that barring unforseen developments afield and hidden complexes among the Reds' hirers and firers, William McKechnie is still a fixture.

Offhand, the deacon's main worry would seem to be whether there will be baseball at all next year, and if there is will he have to get out and pitch himself?

He and General Manager Warren C. Giles, would make a battery worth walking to Dayton to see.

SEEK WAY TO SIMPLIFY U. S. TAX PROCEDURE

Treasury, Congress Experts Get Millions of 'Beefs' Over Pay-Go Muddle.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Treasury and congressional tax leaders worked today on plans to simplify America's tax procedure as complaints poured in from millions who have paid their first returns under the pay-as-you-go plan.

Although house ways and means committee hearings on the 1944 tax bill, slated to begin Monday, were postponed, committee Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) said the nation's taxing methods must be simplified immediately.

Members of the committee met with treasury officials behind closed doors far into last night discussing simplification of tax returns.

Doughton said he thought postponement of the tax hearings would cause only slight delay in solving the problems and working out a new tax measure. It was believed that the hearings were called off until close of the current third war loan drive.

"We must simplify taxes and we must have a new general tax bill by Jan. 1 if we have to work nights until that time to get one," Doughton said.

"Only today I received a letter from a banker who said he had to get a lawyer to help him make out his return. I can't blame him. I had to get an expert to do my own."

Meanwhile, Sen. Walter F. George (D., Ga.), chairman of the senate finance committee, said he expected Doughton's committee would probably get a new bill over to the senate about November.

"When it comes over I may try to find a way to integrate the 3 per cent victory tax with the 6 per cent normal tax and lower the personal exemptions," George said.

He added that if this were done he would favor adding another one per cent to help meet government demands for new revenue.

Asked what he would do with postwar credits under the present victory tax George said they would be retained.

He also said that to simplify making of returns, he would permit taxpayers to use their March 1 estimates of annual tax and income as the basic estimate, rather than that made on Sept. 15.

"This," he said, "would eliminate the six per cent penalty imposed for an inaccurate estimate."

In addition, he would permit taxpayers to correct their estimates at the end of every quarter.

PLAN CHECK ON 'B', 'C' GAS USERS

OPA Announces It'll Assign Checkers To Ration Boards For Inquiries.

District offices have been instructed to participate in a nationwide audit of "B" and "C" coupons issued for essential driving purposes, the regional Office of Price Administration announced today, as a part of a drive to reduce gasoline consumption.

Vincent S. Bishop, Cleveland district officer, said most ration boards will be only "spot-checked," unless "indications point to numerous excess mileage holders." County ration board chairman C. C. Beelman said today he had received no official word concerning the district plans.

Meanwhile today, the local board announced the issuing of truck gasoline for the fourth quarter will begin Sept. 20 and continue through Oct. 1. It is necessary for the applicant to bring his certificate of war necessity to the ration board with him to make application for this gasoline.

Saturday, Sept. 18, will be deadline for exchanging old type B and C coupons for the new type, board officials said. After that date no exchanges will be made.

REFUSE TO WASH JAP'S CLOTHING

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. —(U.P.) —Maintenance employes at Smith college refused today to wash the clothing of Dr. Schuchi Kusaka, a Japanese alien, and threatened to stage a general strike in protest against his appointment to the physics department.

Hundreds of townspeople, some of whom lost their sons at Guadalcanal, supported the 200 maintenance workers in contesting Kusaka's appointment, which was recommended by Miss Wu Chien-Shiung, a Chinese teacher of physics.

Herbert J. Davis, college president, said Kusaka had an excellent record during his six years of research work at Princeton university and the Federal Bureau of Investigation gave the Japanese a clean bill of health.

86 ENROLLED

ASHLAND—Enrollment at Ashland college stands at 86 with enrollment expected to reach 100 when late registrations are completed. Enrollment at this time last year was 200.

Absence of men on the campus is given as the reason for the lower enrollment. Women students outnumber men this year five to one. Nearly half the enrollment is made up of new students.

ARMY, NAVY TO CALL MILLION

consideration to occupational deferments for those making a substantial contribution to the war effort.

During the hearing Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) called for a congressional investigation of what he said was "wastage" of labor in west coast and other war industries. He was joined in this request by Senator Holman (R., Ore.) who told the committee one report by an investigator for the Truman committee had "been buried."

The navy needs to draft 533,000 men to meet its manpower requirements the last four months of this year, Rear Admiral Randoll Jacobs, naval personnel chief, today told the senate military committee, which is surveying the necessity for drafting fathers.

This means selective service will be called upon to furnish upward of a million men by Dec. 31, since army spokesmen testified yesterday that inductions will vary from 145,000 to 175,00 a month for the rest of 1943 to build an army of 7,700,000 men.

In response to a question, Jacobs stated a lowering of the draft age from 18 to 17 would "increase the percentage of rejections considerably."

Chairman Reynolds (D., N. C.) tossed this new angle into the second day of the hearings.

Asserting that "some have advocated" the induction of youths of 17 in preference to taking pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, Reynolds said his question was intended solely to obtain Admiral Jacobs' views.

The witness replied that while the navy accepted many 17-year-olds for enlistment, many others were rejected because they were not mature enough for service.

Senator-opponents of the father draft gave ground before the unanimous testimony of military leaders that the armed forces will have to put nearly a half million family heads into uniform this year to make victory certain.

While Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) remained publicly confident that he can win approval next week of legislation to postpone the induction of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers until after Jan. 1, there were signs that the high command's opposition had made inroads into the ranks of the bill's supporters.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky, who has professed neutrality on the proposal, told reporters he thought the army had "made a good case" for its contention that it cannot get the 630,000 men it claims to need before Jan. 1 without taking fathers. The alternative, they said, would be to disrupt war production by inducting essential single men from war industries.

That was the gist of the argument presented to the military committee yesterday by Lieut. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, and Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson.

Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet, sent Chairman Reynolds (D., N. C.) a statement declaring there could be no decrease in the number of men to be furnished to the armed forces "without serious detriment not only to planned operations but operations that are now under way or in process of mounting." He added that troop needs for 1944 necessarily would increase over 1943.

PLAN OUTING

GALION—Distinguished visitor for a meeting of Galion aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Wednesday night, was William P. Wetherald of Zanesville, grand treasurer.

The lodge planned for the annual stag picnic to be held Sunday at Seccaium park, and also set Sept. 29 as the date for class initiation.

BOY SCOUT 'LAND ARMY' TURNS IN BUSY SUMMER WORK REPORT

Mansfield Boy Scouts have been doing their share in the "citizens land army" this summer and are continuing their work in helping Richland county farmers harvest their crops, Area Scout Executive Floyd Dent said today.

During the summer the boys helped harvest 350 acres of wheat and oats, helped with the threshing on 18 farms, and gathered 450 bushels of early apples. Dent reported.

The Scouts now are helping harvest the potato crop, and 150 have volunteered to work on three farms tomorrow and Saturday. All of the boys will not be taken at one time because of the transportation problem, Dent said, but the work will be evenly divided among the volunteers.

"School officials, Supt. W. L. Miller and the principals of the two Junior high schools, are giving us fine cooperation on this project," Dent said, "permitting the boys who are up in their studies to take one day a week off from school for the farm work without counting them absent from their classes."

Tomorrow the boys will leave Scout headquarters at 8 a. m. and return at 5 p. m. Saturday, because of the circus, they will work only half a day, leaving at 8 and returning at 12:30. Boys working Friday will take their lunches.

The boys will be under the supervision of Area Scout Commissioner C. R. Kimmell.

REGISTER FOR NEW CLASSES

Friendly House Opens Rolls For Kindergarten, Fall and Winter Program.

Registration for Friendly House activities this fall and winter is now in progress at the settlement house preparatory to the opening of the fall program next month.

Kindergarten registration will be held at Friendly House during the weeks of Sept. 20 and Sept. 27 from 1 to 3 p. m. Parents are to call in person to register their children. Classes are scheduled to begin Monday, Oct. 4, at 9 a. m. with Mrs. Russell Gimbel acting as temporary instructor until a new supervisor can be found.

Clubs and classes will all begin Oct. 4 with such activities as handicraft, cooking and sewing for girls, mothers' sewing and knitting groups, dramatics, woodworking, crafts and gym classes for boys scheduled.

Girls and mothers work will be temporarily in charge of Mrs. E. Feeman and M. Wentz will be in charge of the boys' work.

Russell E. Gimbel, Friendly House director, said today volunteers will be needed for activities at Friendly House including the kindergarten. This work involves an hour or more each week and those interested are asked to contact Gimbel.

BUCYRUS GIRL WED RECENTLY

BUCYRUS — Friends of Miss Irma Papp, of Detroit, formerly of Bucyrus, learned today of her marriage, Aug. 30, to Alfred Kelley, Detroit insurance broker, which took place in the Memorial chapel of Elm Park Methodist church at Scranton, Pa.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Papp, of Bucyrus. Kelley is the son of Roy Kelley of Clarks Green, Pa. Mrs. Kelley is a graduate of Bucyrus high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley are spending their honeymoon in New York City and upon their return will establish their home in Detroit.

NEW PASTOR

ASHLAND—Rev. Paul W. Kirk, pastor of the Nova United Brethren church, who was ordained into the United Brethern ministry at the East Ohio conference of United Brethern ministers last week, will enter Oberlin college at Oberlin Nov. 4 to complete graduate work.

During his pastorate at Nova, Rev. Kirk has attended Ashland college seminary while doing full time pastoral duties. He is a graduate of Holland high school in Trumbull county and of Otterbein college in the class of 1911. He will continue his pastorate at Nova while attending Oberlin.

sulting engineers with special facilities and qualifications for securing war contracts from the government."

According to the indictment, "retainer fees of as much as $9,000 were accepted from clients and contracts were entered into calling for commissions of as much as eight per cent of all contracts secured. These retainer fees constituted virtually the only working capital ever possessed by Engineers' Group, Inc."

The indictment charges "that the defendants had little or no experience of the sort claimed, and could not and did not produce any of the services for which they were paid."

"Each of the defendants took an active part in the operation of the firm," the indictment states "and large sums were spent on entertainment, travel and hotel bills for the purpose of establishing an impressive 'front'."

The indictment further states that "a fictitious advisory board was created using the names of a half dozen nationally known industrialists and engineers, none of whom, it is alleged, had given their permission or were even aware that their names were being so used."

"The first 20 counts of the indictment," the justice department said, "are based on individual mailing of letters and brochures by the defendants in furtherance of the scheme to defraud. The 21st count charges a conspiracy to commit the frauds set forth in the other 20 counts."

PLANT RUSHES COILS NEEDED AT AIR FIELD

Army Air Center Calls Off Night Flights Till Tiny Devices Arrive.

While millions of dollars worth of Army Air Force flying equipment remains grounded from night flights Dale C. Watt, manager of the control division of the Ideal Electric and Manufacturing company tonight will be speeding to Washington with four small inexpensive relay coils which, after certain details are complied with, will be delivered to a bomber crew which will transport them to Maxwell field at Montgomery, Ala.

Early Monday A. E. Quinn, an operations official of the field, telephoned Watt, explaining that a manual error in power house operation resulted in the burning out of four relay coils in the rectifier of the base's night lighting cubicle. The coils—all four can be held easily in one hand—had to be made up according to rigid specifications in the Ideal shops.

Until new coils could be obtained, Quinn said, there could be no night flying from Maxwell field.

It had been originally planned to send a B-24 bomber here to pick up the coils, but the runway at Mansfield airport isn't considered long enough for such a ship to land safely, according to air force regulations.

So other arrangements were made.

Construction of the coils was completed today in sufficient time for Watt to board the Pennsylvania railroad's famous Red Arrow for the nation's capital. Early Friday, after accomplishing certain formalities in Washington Watt will hasten to Bolling field where he'll meet the bomber crew which will speed the new coils back to the Alabama air base.

"This service which Ideal is giving us," Quinn messaged to S. Glen Vinson, company president, "is beyond value when we comtemplate the AAF training needs, the cost of flying craft at the field and the preciousness of the lives they carry."

If you ever need $25, $50, $100 or more quickly and simply, come to Household Finance. If you have a job so that you can repay in small monthly payments, you are welcome to apply for any amount up to $1000. The sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Example: A $50 loan repaid in 6 monthly installments of $9.24 each costs $5.44—if repaid in one month the cost is only $1.50. No endorsers or guarantors are ever needed. We never make inquiries of friends or relatives.

STOCK MARKET TAKES SLIGHT UPWARD JAUNT

General Fractional Gains Predominate In Early Trading Activity.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Gains of fractions predominated in today's early stock market transactions.

On the upside at a quiet opening were N. Y. Central, Woolworth, Yellow Truck, Public Service of N. J., Sears Roebuck, Boeing, Goodyear and Phelps Dodge. Off a shade were American Telephone and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Interest was shown in a sharp jump of the nation's bank clearings during the week ended Wednesday. Dun & Bradstreet estimated the expansion at 33.6 per cent above the 1942 period with the aggregate only slightly under the 12-year peak established last May.

COUNTY RELIEF COSTS DROP TO NEW LOW LEVEL

August Expenditures Decline To $3,131 or $114 Less Than July Outlay.

With every able-bodied worker needed for war jobs and earnings at the highest point in years, Richland county's relief load dropped to a new low of $3,131 in August. The total cost was $114 less than the July expenditures.

The monthly report compiled by Miss Margaret Austin, county statistician, listed the Mansfield relief costs at $1,319 and the expenditures outside the city and for office maintenance at $1,812. Administration costs declined with the direct relief burden, amounting to $606 last month, $17 less than in July.

The city-county caseload remained the same in August as in July, with 77 cases on the relief lists. Four fewer persons received aid, however, in August, the total dropping to 130.

The county spent $14.60 last month for aid to transients. Medical services made up a large part of the total relief cost, amounting to $1,020, including $587 in Mansfield and $432 outside the city.

Expenditures for direct relief totaled $1,490 for the combined areas The county expense was a little higher, totaling $758 as compared with $732 in Mansfield.

August expenditures were $1,534 below the total costs for the corresponding month last year and about one-eighth of the peak relief costs during the winter of 1937-38 when monthly expenses were as high as $24,000.

Camouflage? No, Mud-Spattered by Bomb

At first glance this looks like another of those camouflage pictures. It isn't, though, for these Marines are mud-bespattered after a bombing attack somewhere in the Pacific. The anti-aircraft gun unit escaped serious injury. Left to right are By. Sgt. Carl L. Duchscher of Pleasant Lake, N. D.; Pfc. C. Ackerman of Manchester, Conn., and Pfc W. Moshowski of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Train Rider Fined — Pleading guilty in municipal court today to a charge of illegal train riding, Walter Raymond Dickerhoff, Canton, was fined $10 and costs. He was arrested early today at the Mansfield depot by Pennsylvania detectives

Awards Road Job—The state highway department today announced the awarding of a contract to the J. C. O'Connor and Sons, Inc., of Ft. Wayne, Ind., for the construction of a half-mile of State Route 61 in Sharon township at a cost of $28,832. The plans call for completion of the project by Dec. 31.

Arrest Suspect—A Mansfield soldier's wife was held today by police as a suspect in the malicious damaging of a car Tuesday at the Westinghouse parking lot. Miss Norma Miller, 51 Henry street, owner of the car, told officers the windows were broken, wires were ripped from the motor, and the air was let out of the tires on the car.

PLEA BRINGS IN COAT HANGERS

The Mansfield USO club still needed 100 coat hangers today to supply the army aviation students at the Mansfield airport, although an appeal published in yesterday's News-Journal brought 200 hangers in short order.

Mrs. M. K. Leggett, who was on duty this morning at the USO club, said a large number of calls had been received from persons offering hangers. The 200 already contributed represent donations of only a few from each home, Mrs. Leggett said.

No Need to Skimp on Quality!

Because High Standard covers as much surface per gallon, this typical six-room house (24' x 32' x 15') can be painted with two coats of HIGH STANDARD for an approximate material cost of only . . .
$18.25
THE EXTRA PROTECTION OF Lowe Brothers HIGH STANDARD HOUSE PAINT COSTS YOU NOTHING
Here's why the extra protection of LOWE BROTHERS HIGH STANDARD HOUSE PAINT actually costs you nothing. It covers solidly more surface per gallon than "cheap" paint. It spreads evenly and easily to save time and money. So it actually goes farther to cost less per square-foot-of-surface protected. And that means that extra beauty and extra protection costs you nothing.

FIRE LOOKOUT ESCAPES DEATH

MEDFORD, Ore.—(INS)—Francis Bush is convinced that he has a charmed life.

Bush, a lookout in the Rogue River national forest, was lifting a piece of apricot to his mouth when a bolt of lightning hit his spoon, knocking the spoon one way and the apricot the other.

When he recovered from the shock he saw that the lightning had kindled a fire nearby and went to the telephone to report the blaze.

As Bush lifted the receiver there was an ear-shattering crash and he was tossed head over heels across the cabin. Then he got in his car and drove two miles down the mountain to report the fire.

If You Get Up Nights You Can't Feel Right

If you have to get up 2 or more times a night your rest is broken and it's no wonder if you feel old and run down before your time. Functional rather than organic or systemic Kidney and Bladder trouble often may be the cause of many pains and symptoms simply because the Kidneys may be tired and not working fast enough in filtering and removing irritating excess acids, poisons and wastes from your blood. So if you get up nights or suffer from burning, scanty or frequent passages, leg pains, backache, or swollen ankles, due to non-organic or non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles, you'll make no mistake in trying the prescription called Cystex. Because it has given such joyous, happy relief in so high a percentage of such cases, Cystex is sold under a guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory. Cystex costs only 35c at druggists.

TAKE HOSPITAL TO SOLDIERS

Portable Units Are Used For Surgical Work In Jungle Areas.

(By International News Service)

CARLISLE BARRACKS, Pa.—Portable hospitals were held out today as the solution to the problem of giving adequate surgical aid to wounded soldiers in jungle battle areas.

Back from eight months in New Guinea, Lt. Col Leon S. Eagleberger of the Army Medical Corps related how doctors performed surgery in the jungle only a few hundred yards behind the "front lines." Eagleberger has returned to the United States to instruct newly-commissioned physicians in combat medicine at the Carlisle Medical Field Service School.

A native of Waupun, Wis., he was an officer in the national guard when called into federal service in January, 1941, and was stationed in New Guinea from the start of United Nations operations there until last April. He commanded a medical battalion.

In May, 1942, Eagleberger was ordered to take part of his battalion to Port Moresby to establish a provisional hospital for the handful of engineer, air corps and anti-aircraft artillery troops there and to pave the way for the larger hospitals which later moved into the area.

He paid great tribute to the miracles blood plasma and whole blood transfusions brought about in counter-acting and preventing shock and thereby saving many lives. But not the least of his praise was for the medical soldiers and natives who did a "terrific job" in getting the wounded to nearby medical installations. Many of them were cited for their excellent work under fire.

The provisional hospital was about 17 miles out of Port Moresby toward the Owen Stanley mountains. At first the hospital was under tents but later consisted of a temporary-type building, well screened, with ward tents over wooden frames. Eagleberger established sanitary facilities in his own hospital area and, as medical inspector for all U. S. installations in New Guinea, brought about sanitary conditions in all camps.

At first there were few troops and the medical soldiers erected all the hospital buildings. The water problem was solved by using a small truck to haul water and by erecting a stand-pipe type of tower for storing it. The hospital initially handled routine cases, treating injured men in construction work or ill with dysentery.

Irish moss found in the waters off the North Atlantic coast is used in puddings, medicines, cosmetics and lotions.

YANKS HOLDING SALERNO, START NEW ATTACKS

Gen. Clark Announces Front Now Secured as Army Drives Ahead Again.

ery's Eighth army, racing dramatically up the Italian west coast, with the Italian toe behind it, passed through the ancient fishing village of Scalea, approximately 50 miles airline southeast of Agropoli, the southern anchor of Gen. Clark's position, Allied headquarters announced.

Gen. Montgomery's dust-stained warriors were meeting no opposition in the dash that had carried them more than 15 miles in the last 24 hours.

Although Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters communique said the Fifth army had strengthened its hold on its bridgehead and was being reinforced and supplied, it was not considered likely that the critical phase would pass until it had been joined by the Eighth army to form a great unified force.

Meanwhile, the communique had nothing further to report of the British force which landed at Taranto and sliced off the Italian heel with the capture of Brindisi and Bari in a flanking drive on the east side of the peninsula. There troops were believed to be fanning out through the lower backbone of the Appennines, however.

The shifting nature of the hard-fought engagement was indicated by earlier field reports that the Germans had been forced to make a limited withdrawal from the wedge they had driven at the center of the allied bridgehead near Eboli and, apparently spent, were digging in in the higher ground, and by later reports that the German attack still was on the increase.

(A DNB broadcast from Berlin said German troops had stormed Persano, at the mouth of the Sele river, indicating a claim to the splitting of the allied front. Seventeen American tanks were destroyed and 700 prisoners taken, the broadcast declared.

(The German communique made no such claim, but declared "landing heads were further narrowed."

("When storming Altavilla, Americans lost numerous dead and prisoners," the communique said, adding that the German air force destroyed an 8,000-ton transport and damaged 11 more ships of the landing fleet.

(The German International Information Bureau in a propaganda broadcast asserted that allied shipping losses in the Gulf of Salerno from Sept. 8, the first day of operations, until Tuesday totaled four cruisers, two destroyers, 20 merchantmen and 15 landing boats sunk, and eight cruisers, five destroyers, 99 transports, tankers and freighters damaged.)

Stressing that the Fifth army was composed equally of Americans and British and that "there should be no attempt to make this either an exclusively British or American show," a headquarters spokesman said:

"I would like to emphasize that this Salerno attack always was considered a hazardous enterprise and hard fighting was expected. The element of surprise was missing and from the first day the fighting has been furious."

The Germans were rushing all available troops to the front despite the terrific allied air bombardment which was blanketing the whole area with bombs, and they were seizing Italian guns and munitions to throw into the fray.

Americans and British, on the other hand, were using some of the most daring tactics of the war and accepting "suicide" assignments as a matter of course, headquarters reports said.

Still weak in the air, the Germans were unable to meet the allied air armadas thrown over the bridgehead. The allies lost four planes yesterday while shooting down five of the enemy.

Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, air headquarters said the daily bomb tonnage deluging the Germans in the Salerno area was "vastly greater than any previous effort in the Mediterranean," including even the 1,200 tons dropped on Rome in the first raid on the Italian capital, and far outdoing the huge Anteller-ia effort.

The big air assault was meeting almost no resistance, with the fliers reporting very little anti-aircraft fire over the battle area, indicating the Germans had not yet had time to bring up their heavy anti-aircraft batteries or were forced to engage them against American and British troops rushing up from the beaches.

Field dispatches indicated the Germans already had made limited withdrawals from the wedge they drove into allied lines early in the week.

The fierce fighting that turned the 27-mile bridgehead into an inferno of screaming shell and thunderous gunfire on Monday night and Tuesday morning tapered off to some extent yesterday and General Clark took advantage of the lull to reorganize and reinforce his lines.

(The Berlin radio, taking a far different view of the situation than when it was proclaiming an allied evacuation 48 hours ago, admitted this morning that the numerical strength of allied forces at Salerno is "far greater than had been originally believed.")

Taking a minor leaf from the book of the northwest African air forces, which on Tuesday concentrated its full might on enemy concentrations in the Salerno area, a big group of German planes attempted a ground strafing operation, but anti aircraft and other batteries scored heavily.

For the Nazi troops under the command of Field Marshal Gel. Albert Kesselring the next few days may constitute the 11th hour for any further success in counter-attacks.

The fast-striding Eighth army, chasing the remnants of a Nazi division before it, covered some 25 miles Tuesday despite enemy mines and demolitions, however considerable rough terrain obstructs its advance.

Twenty-eight additional small units of the Italian navy were said to have arrived at Palerno, Sicily.

First Army Nurses Reach Salerno

WITH THE U. S. FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, Sept. 15 (Delayed)—(UNS)—The first American army nurses to debark on European soil since 1917 landed in the Salerno sector of Italy this afternoon from a landing barge and immediately went to work in a hospital.

Wearing G. I. steel helmets and full-length fatigue uniforms with long trousers, they attracted little attention at first until one soldier noted their dainty way of wading ankle-deep along the beaches. He shouted: "Wow! Women! and here!"

Many of the nurses are veterans of the Sicilian campaign. The first party to arrive totalled 57.

Allies Seize Balkan Outposts, Report

LONDON—(AP)—Allied occupation of two island outposts to the Balkans, in a move strikingly similar to operations which preceded the invasion of Italy, was reported in dispatches from Ankara today.

One account said the Greek island of Samos and the Dodecanese island of Lero, off the Turkish coast and about 150 miles north of German-held Crete, were occupied three days ago—the day before Great Britain's Ninth army was reported to have embarked from its Middle East bases 400 miles across the Mediterranean in Syria and Tranjordania.

Other dispatches to London newspapers reported both islands had been turned over to the Greek gendiarmerie by Italian occupying forces after their country surrendered to the Allies.

Japs, Nazis to Get 'Hell', Says Marshall

MEXICO CITY (U.P.)—Predicting new and harder blows against Germany and Japan, Gen. George C. Mashall, U. S. Army Chief of staff said last night that Nazi resistance in Italy is "just delaying things, but we will soon give them hell."

The general, speaking at a reception in the American embassy after his arrival aboard an army transport plane, said Allied bombing of Germany has been very effective, shattering utilities and "badly disorganizing the population." And, he added, these air attacks "will get worse."

Nazis Set Up Guns Near Vatican, Claim

GENEVA, Switzerland—(AP)—An Italian border dispatch to the Lausanne Gazette said today that German troops armed with anti-tank guns and machineguns were preventing persons from entering or leaving Vatican City.

"A dozen mobile antitank guns have been placed in St. Peter's square at the base of the grand stairway of the Basilica, while machineguns were installed along the celebrated colonnades," the dispatch said.

German parachute troops have mounted guard around Vatican City to check all contacts between Rome proper and the Holy See, it was reported. The dispatch said it now was impossible for faithful Italians to obtain permission to pray in St. Peter's. These measures were taken, an Italian crowd was told, to check the entry into Vatican City of anti-Fascists seeking refuge within its precincts.

As 'This Is the Army' Ticket Sale Opens

You may have heard that old rumor about rivalry between the army and navy but this picture proves it isn't so. Here a sailor buys one of the first tickets for the picture, "This is the Army" which will have its premier at the Ohio theater Friday Sept. 24, with the proceeds to go to Army Emergency relief. But more than that, the tickets are being sold in a hut built by Stran-Steel corporation for the Navy and set up for ticket selling purposes on the west side of Central park.

In charge of ticket sales are Mrs. Gilbert Dobson, shown at the right, Mrs. Walter Hahne, president of the Blue Star Mothers' Club, and J. Gilbert Baird, general chairman of the benefit performance. Seats are priced at $5.50, $3.50 and $1.10 for the premier performance.

STILL MISSING

Hunt For Girl, 17, Turns To Former Home.

Search for a 17-year-old Mansfield girl, principal witness in a juvenile court hearing scheduled for Oct. 1, today had taken Police Chief Meade K. Bates and Detective Herbert Palmer to Nelsonville, the girl's former home.

Bates revealed yesterday that the girl had disappeared and had been traced to a home near Danville, Knox county. She was gone, however, when officers arrived.

Police need the girl to testify in a case involving morals charges against her step-father and mother, Lawrence and Marie Lyons, now held in the county jail.

Bates yesterday expressed the belief that the couple, released from jail on bond for several days, had spirited the girl away. Lyons and his wife were imprisoned again Monday when their bonds were withdrawn.

WAR PLANT HIT

Fire Causes $3,000 Damage at Cleveland Factory.

CLEVELAND—(UNS)—Damage estimated at $3,000 was reported today as a result of a fire in the oven-room of the National Aluminum Cylinder Head company, a subsidiary of the National Bronze and Aluminum company.

Ten fire companies were called to fight the blaze in the plant working on war contracts, in the room where metal is remelted into ingots.

4 ARRESTED

3 Face Speed Charge, One For Inadequate Muffler.

Mansfield police yesterday arrested four motorists in the city, three of them for speeding and the other for driving with an inadequate muffler on his car.

Cited for speeding on Park avenue west, John E. Rousch, Canton, posted $16.30 bond and waived hearing, while Carl A. Schieber, Galion, was fined $10 and costs in municipal court. Kenneth Robert Dent, Mansfield R. D. 3, was ordered to appear for hearing Friday morning in municipal court.

William Parsel, Shiloh, R. D. 2, who was cited last night on West Fourth street for driving with an inadequate muffler, pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning and was fined $5 and costs.

REDS WIN AT NOVOROSSISK

Climax Five-Day Battle By Storming Into Big Russian Naval Base.

Meanwhile other Red army units pushed closed to Pavlograd, Lozovaya and Zaporozhy in a race to cut off escape routes of retreating German forces in thes outhern Ukraine and isolate the Crimea.

Capture of Nezhin, 72 miles northeast of Kiev, severad the last important German-held North-South railroad east of the the Dnieper, leaving the Germans no alternative but to withdraw to their Dnieper defenses or even farther east.

A supplement to the Soviet midnight communique announced that Nezhin fell only after the Russians broke through strong defense positions against furious resistance by heavily reinforced German defenders. The Nazis sacrificed 4,000 men killed in a bitter two-day battle or Nezhin, as well as large number of prisoners and huge stores of war materials captured.

3 APPLICANTS

They Are Certified For One Post In Fire Department.

The names of three applicants for a Mansfield fireman's post were certified today to Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolft by the civil service commission.

Listed as eligible for appointment to the job, left vacant by the recent resignation of Clarence Lurz, were Earl J. Muth, 66 Ausdale avenue; Harold A. Lanzen, 121 Lexington avenue, and Harold R. Gutekunst, 443 Wood street. The names were the three highest on an existing eligibility list.

The civil service commission revealed that only two applicants for the fire chief's post have appeared so far. They are Acting Chief L. R. Zimmerman and Capt. Frank Stahl at the No. 4 station. Examinations for the job will be conducted Sept. 29.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1943.

Sad words of 1943: "Closed Until Further Notice," "Only One to a Customer," "Positively No Butter."

Another thing that has never been explained is why "a Philadelphia lawyer" is any better on a tough problem than a barrister from some other city.

An Idea of Our Importance

IF THERE was any doubt in the minds of Mansfielders that the CAA allotment of $600,000 for construction of a new airport in Mansfield would add tremendously to the city's importance, that doubt should be dispelled by now.

Announcement yesterday that Transcontinental and Western Air Inc. proposes to include Mansfield in a greatly-expanded coast-to-coast service brings to three the number of organizations that are including Mansfield in their plans for the future. The other two are Greyhound Lines and Yellow Cab company, who seek to institute short-flight helicopter service—both freight and passenger—between Ohio cities in close proximity.

Most Mansfielders, even if not themselves aviation enthusiasts, have of course recognized that air travel in the days to come will expand tremendously and that freight may some day constitute as big a part of the air-borne traffic as passenger business. It may even be bigger.

The Mansfield aviation picture gets brighter day by day. It would be a tragedy, therefore, if anything in the process of meeting CAA requirements for the grant should block or even delay the airport project.

There are problems to be met, of course. There is land to be acquired, a state highway to be relocated, and utility lines to be moved. But city and state administrations and utility executives should clearly understand that their problems are ones Mansfielders expect them to solve without delay, so that the city itself can keep its proper place in the air future of the country.

Welcome But Unique Headline

IN THESE days of constantly increasing taxes, and talk of increasing taxes, a headline in yesterday's News-Journal ought to have proven pleasant respite to Richland countians.

The headline said "Tax Rate in 22 Districts Cut."

We leave it to any taxpayer—and who isn't one these days?—if that isn't at least unique among an average day's headlines.

What it meant, of course, was that real estate taxes in 22 taxing subdivisions of the county were to be reduced. Some of them may not come down a great deal.

But any tax reduction these days is welcome news. Wonder if any of the boys in Washington would believe such a thing possible?

A Durable Peace

AS CONGRESS assembled again, it was stated at Washington that the first major task of congress would probably be consideration by the house of "a just and lasting peace."

That, broadly speaking, is what the whole present governmental business is about. And it is certainly a job! For its attainment, not only the best brains of congress, but the best brains of the executive department and the whole governmental system, plus those of all this nation's allies, are needed. It is more important than was the first great task of its kind—the formulation and adoption of the Constitution of the United States—because in this case the whole world is concerned. And the peace for which men everywhere are yearning must not only be demanded. It must be organized and implemented.

Here is no task for little men or scheming politicians. It is a task for the American people, along with governments and people of good will and intent in other important countries, acting in constructive harmony. It is necessarily a cooperative job, bigger itself than anybody in it. And with a reasonable expectation of winning the world war now before too long a time, the best brains and highest good will of all intelligent Americans should be directed to this task.

Big Improvement Job

LAW AND ORDER, when it comes to a real test, must still depend on force—at least in this present state of human imperfection. The righteous, or perhaps we should say the more intelligent and sensible and well-disposed part of mankind, must act together. They must perfect themselves, and also use their influence and power to make the less intelligent members of society get into line. It has always been so since man rose from the brute, and the effort must continue as long as man remains imperfect. And that, it may be assumed, will be a long time yet.

But humanity does make progress in its more intelligent areas, when it has suffered enough punishment for its sins of omission and commission. And the bulk of the so-called civilized world seems now in a more understanding and penitential mood than is has ever been in before.

Life is also advanced far enough to provide world-wide communication and intelligent approach to international crime and world problems. As the result of a devastating war that has bitterly affected all mankind, the stage is now getting set for a big drama of human improvement and cooperation, in which every individual and nation can share.

This is a time for all good men, and all merely intelligent men, to come to the aid of the poor, dumb, long-enduring mankind, and help to give civilization a permanent boost.

German Grandfathers

WHILE Americans are scrapping among themselves as to whether or not they will call up fathers for the fighting forces, the Germans are calling up grandfathers. They already have the young men, the fathers, and the lads who are far too young by any nation's sane standards. Now they are calling for military service the men from 50 to 60 years old.

The Italians are said to be responsible for this last draft call—the Italian units stationed in France and in the Balkans must, the Nazis believe, be replaced. The Germans are drawing men from the Leningrad area, too, so they seem to have reached the bottom of the barrel.

Among other causes for comfort is the fact that the United States can still argue about its fathers. It's at least a generation ahead.

THAT MAN IS BACK AGAIN

Predicts Eventual Victory for Allied Forces In Salerno Fight

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

DIFFICULTIES such as our troops are encountering on the open beaches of Salerno are bound to cause worry among the folks back here at home, especially since casualties apparently have been severe, but there's no reason why we shouldn't regard with complete confidence the general position of our battle with the Hitlerites in an already beaten Italy.

Even if the Fifth army units had to withdraw entirely from Salerno, as the lying German propaganda machine said they were doing, it wouldn't represent a major defeat from the standpoint of the Italian operations as a whole. It would be a nasty but not vital setback.

In order to have a correct picture of the situation we must know that the Nazis have no expectation whatever of preventing Allied occupation of Italy. Their tactics represent an act of desperation which is being carried out largely to try to restore in some degree their shattered prestige, and partly in the hope of delaying the Allies in undertaking other invasion operations.

Our troubles at Salerno haven't been due to the massing of great German strength—though we seem to have been outnumbered numerically—but to the fact that the Hitlerites were well established with artillery on the hills overlooking the landing-stages. Our boys had to struggle ashore under heavy gunfire from the heights, and fight their way up the sloping beaches in the face of fierce attacks from tanks and infantry.

I've sailed along those shores, and have motored and hiked in that neighborhood, under the shadows of old Vesuvius. It's beautiful in many parts from an artist's viewpoint, but it's a devilish sector for a soldier to have to invade from the sea.

It doesn't take a big force to defend such admirable positions as are held by the Germans. Actually they are said to have one infantry and two mechanized divisions—or parts of divisions—in the Salerno sector. Three full divisions would represent between 35,000 and 40,000 men.

Concentration of these troops on the heights as made it extremely difficult for us to create a heavy attacking force from our invasion units at the beachhead. However, the Yanks obviously have already done a sizable job.

Apparently in the early stages of the fighting we did have to withdraw a unit from one point in the beachhead and send it in at another place. So far as information from Allied headquarters goes this represents the sole excuse for Berlin's claims that we were withdrawing wholesale and were beaten. On the contrary, latest advices are that General Eisenhower is pouring reinforcements into the Salerno battle and that the sea is black with transports in that area.

Meanwhile General Montgomery's British Eighth army is pushing northward in two columns from the heel and toe. These columns now are something less than 60 miles from Salerno. They aren't encountering much armed resistance, although they are hampered by mines and Nazi demolitions along the highways, and they are moving so fast that they may reach Salerno in less than a week. An attack on the German rear would change the complexion of things.

As a matter of fact, the position of the Germans at Salerno is far from enviable. They've been more or less cut loose on their own, with bad communications to the north, to carry out a suicide job. Their game will be to hit and run—if they can—when Montgomery's troops arrive and things get too hot.

As the signs now read, the Allies should be able to make reasonable progress up the southern half of the peninsula. The fighting is likely to intensify from Rome northward, and will reach its peak along the Po river in the far north, where wily Marshal Rommel again is plotting holding operations such as gained him fame in Africa. Much will depend on air power, and we have a superiority.

Readers Forum

Editor, News-Journal:

The Junior Association of Commerce should be encouraged by every right-thinking citizen in its attempt to establish a recreation center for the young people of this community. Under proper supervision it will mean a step in the right direction.

Although the organization of the J. A. C. has been depleted due to many of their members being called to arms, those remaining persist in carrying out the worthwhile things for which the organization was created.

J. Edgar Hoover, the efficient head of the F. B. I., made a startling report in June of this year—furnishing example upon example of 'teen age boys and girls going to the dogs in amazingly increasing numbers. In the last year, the symptoms have increased so that if we don't look out these young people will be a lost generation. He reports in one year, among the boys of 'teen age, arrests to the extent of 36 per cent over the previous year. Among the girls, more shocking figures were given—39 per cent increase in the last year for drunkenness, 64 per cent for prostitution, 69 per cent for disorderly conduct and 124 per cent for vagrancy. Startling, isn't it?

We will not agree that the youth of today will became a lost generation if moves along the line of the J. A. C. are encouraged by the people throughout these United States.

The writer is not trying to pose as a reformer. I am simply viewing the picture of tomorrow from a common sense point of view in the belief that the youth of today are no different from the youth of yesterday, but the youth of today faces conditions in these hectic times, never faced by their fathers and mothers.

Give the J. A. C. every encouragement, or any other organization that believes in the youth of today. Young America on the war front has demonstrated the ability to carry on and we are all mighty proud of their success. Let us not forget the youth at home to which they will return.

As Others See It

Hard to Please.

Hitler aside, we have found paper hangers as a class very agreeable, except in 25 years we have never selected a wallpaper that pleased one.—Chicago Daily News.

Very Confusing.

It is urged that a great scarcity of feathers could be cured by lifting the price. All we have needed to complete our confusion is word that down is now up.—Detroit News.

Dave Boone Says:

Yesterday was pay-as-you-guess day for income tax payers and I never saw so many people running around in so much confusion at the last moment. A lot of 'em seemed surprised to discover that the tax was taking men over 40. And without a physical, too.

Up until now a fellow making out his income tax had some idea what he was doing. It was pretty vague. But it was something. But when he made out the new tax blank he was in complete ignorance.

This is perhaps the first time that the tax authorities and congress have succeeded in blending a tax with a blackout.

Yes, sir, and before they asked a poor fellow with only a college education and a speaking acquaintance with Einstein to sit and tackle this pay-as-you-go tax they should have sounded the blackout signals.

I know a lot of folks who started wading into the explanations of the September tax a month ago and are still in so deep that the only thing to do now is start dragging for their bodies.

A DISPATCH from Washington says the Harry Hopkinses are going to move out of the White House Oct. 1. No doubt that makes you feel terrible, so we'll hasten to add that the dispatch says Harry and his Missus will take a colonial residence, now being remodeled, in the fashionable Georgetown section of Washington.

The dispatch doesn't say who'll pay the rent, probably figuring that anybody who's been around since 1933 ought to know.

Well, nobody's got anything personal against the Hopkinses and we hope they'll be happy in their new home. But just as a friendly tip, it's suggested that Mrs. Hopkins handle the budget.

Congress Expected to Settle Hull-Lehman Feud Over Relief

WASHINGTON—The deadlock between Secretary Hull and ex-Gov. Lehman, of New York, over the administration of foreign relief is expected to be broken by congressional action soon.

This is one of the first things to come before congress and will also test out Republicans as to whether they will go along with the lofty principles of world co-operation espoused at Mackinac Island.

Congress will be asked to authorize a new international agency probably called the United National Relief and Rehabilitation administration. On its executive committee will sit representatives of Great Britain, Russia and China, as well as an American chairman.

The White House has already given private assurances to Gov. Lehman that he will be made chairman. To this end, Lehman shortly will resign as head of the Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation administration, where he has not been happy since it was placed under the State department. Lehman has felt that the State department was a policy organization, not geared for administrative functions, and that his work had bogged down.

In the last war, Herbert Hoover's food administration functioned as a separate agency, and the new international organization to be created by Congress will also be independent, though Lehman is anxious to co-operate with the State department on all policy matters.

Note: Isolationist GOP Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, vigorously opposed to U. S. commitments for post-war relief two months ago, has now been won over by Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson and will support the new Lehman organization when it is debated on the Senate floor.

White House Grass.

White House Gardener William Reeves recently looked disconsolately over the grounds, burnt brown by a hot, dry summer. Lacking an automatic sprinkler system (such as the grounds of the Japanese Embassy still enjoy), the White House lawn had suffered sorrowfully.

But since then one day of heavy rain has turned the grass from brown to green again. There are some bare spots, but new grass is being planted for the fall and winter covering. Reeves is using a mixture made up of 85 per cent blue grass, 7 per cent red top, 5 per cent clover, and 3 per cent colonial bent.

He is omitting the Italian rye this season, because it is actually too good. The rye springs up so fast that it requires regular cutting until frost. The White House has its own manpower problem, and lacks the help to keep the mowers going.

For all who want to revive their lawns for the fall, Reeves says this is the ideal time to reseed.

Note: The White House tennis court is kept ready for use, though it has had no players since last year.

Capital Chaff.

While Congressional solons were away, the house-cleaners have been busy. All the paintings on Sightseers' Row have been cleaned, statues have been given a much-needed bath, and the subways leading to the Senate and House office buildings are resplendent with a fresh coat of paint . . . Also the shuttle cars in the Senate subway have been refitted with new wicker seats . . . Looking at the hefty girth of Senator Edwin C. Johnson, of Colorado, who tips the beam above 225 pounds, you would never guess that he eats only one meal a day. . . . David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, and Arthur "Gus" Cook, its supervising engineer, have had only nine days off in seven years.

Russians Disappointed.

Eagle-eyed Senator Bill Langer, of North Dakota, has just come back from a trip through Alaska, during which he probed into a lot more than the average junketing Congressman.

One thing he looked into was the shipment of airplanes to Russia via Alaska. It is no longer a military secret that U. S. planes are being delivered by this Siberian Great Circle route, and Senator Langer droped in for a chat with two Russians who were piloting planes across the Bering Straits.

One was Col. P. S. Kisilev, chief of the Russian military mission in Fairbanks; the other, Technical Sergeant Inspector George A. Timofiev. Both expressed indignation that the United States had not lived up to its agreement regarding plane deliveries.

"When Harry Hopkins was in Moscow," complained Col. Kisilev, "he promised us a certain number of planes per month. But we have not been getting them. The most we ever got was about 80 per cent during August. And they are all fighters. We need also big bombers."

The Russians felt that the United States should live up to the promises or not promise at all.

"Chicken Dinner Jimmy."

Congressman Jimmy Morrison, the would-be Huey Long of Louisiana, now running for governor of that state, has just had a couple of checks bounce back in a peculiar manner.

Jimmy made the checks good, but the New Colonial hotel in Washington, which honored the checks, is wondering what it is all about.

The Louisiana Congressman, dubbed "Chicken Dinner Jimmy" by his colleagues, drew two checks for $250 each against the Guaranty Bank and Trust company, Hammond, La. The money was to be drawn from the account of Joe Sims, the Congressman's law partner.

But the checks came back marked "No authority to pay." Apparently Jimmy and his law partner had their signals crossed. Louisianians are wondering just what the score is. Meanwhile "Chicken Dinner Jimmy" says he is about to take Louisiana by storm.

ERNIE PYLE — Roving Reporter

John Steinbeck to Prove Valuable Addition To Corps of U. S. War Correspondents.

WASHINGTON—John Steinbeck is a recent addition to our corps of war correspondents in the Mediterranean, as you know. He is now with the invasion forces somewhere along the Italian shores.

Some people are speaking of Steinbeck and me as competitors in the field of war columning. I'm flattered by the inference. But there is neither competition nor comparison. It would be belittling Steinbeck's genius to compare him with any daily deadline-catcher.

I've always been a Steinbeck worshiper. For my money, he's the greatest writer in the world. I think it one of literature's losses that he never got to England during the blitz, to record the moving spirit of that unrecapturable winter. But while he was missing that he was producing "The Moon Is Down," so maybe it was all right after all.

I'm glad that Steinbeck is at last with the wars. For he carries to them a delicate sympathy for mortal man's transient nobilities and beastlinesses that I believe no other writer possesses.

Surely we have no other writer so likely to catch on paper the inner things that most people don't know about war—the pitiableness of bravery, the vulgarity, the grotesquely warped values, the childlike tenderness in all of us.

I met Steinbeck for the first time in Africa, just after returning from Sicily. He was killing time before starting on the Italian invasion, and I was getting ready to come home.

For some reason, I had always been afraid of Steinbeck, even while admiring him. Several times in California I'd passed up the chance to meet him. And in Africa it was several days before I got up the courage to go around and introduce myself.

And then, as so often happens in such cases, Steinbeck turned out to be neither difficult nor blunt. He turned out to be human as hell, friendly, story-telly, laughy and gay. He even admits he's awfully homesick, though he's been gone only three months.

He is a big bruiser of a guy who belies the fine edge of sensitiveness within him. He goes around needing a haircut and with his sleeves rolled up, looking almost as unmilitary as I do.

Walk along the streets with him, or ride around the country, and you'll find his mind constantly pierced and impressed by every little event or scene before him. His consciousness is fertile and always at work. Sometimes he's serious and sometimes he's funny and sometimes he's sardonic. But it's always himself; he isn't one of those people who act.

He makes such remarks as, "There's something about a jeep that brings out the worst in every driver." And one day we were standing on the curb when a dirty, ragged Arab child ran up and asked for money.

Steinbeck looked down at him a long time with mock gravity, and then he said, "Do you mean to tell me that to your hopeless heritage of malnutrition, ignorance and internecine warfare, you now propose to add the degregation of charity?" The bewildered child turned and ran away.

Steinbeck isn't dour, or taciturn, as I had somehow gathered from his writings that he would be. He's willing for anything; you don't have to do whatever Steinbeck wants to do; he does what the crowd wants to do.

If somebody tells a story he'll tell one too, and laugh at his own stories like the rest of us humans.

I don't know how long Steinbeck intends to stay abroad. I hope not too long. You don't have to live with war forever to absorb its basic character. A few months will equip him with all the sight and understanding of war he needs for the production of a great book. He is so alert and aware that he gets something from and contributes something to every little move or word of the day. The war is better for having him in it.

A Farmer's Diary — By CALVIN A. BYERS

Corn Field

THE CORN shocks stand, strong and robust, in the autumn fields. The combined tasseled heads spread a grayish cast along a line that runs far across the rolling land. Beneath, the dull gray fades to a dark, withering green.

Braced and erect, like sentinels on stern duty, they seem to guard the landscape.

I walked in such a field at late afternoon, and saw how far each shock had cast its lengthening shadow. How small I was, standing only half as high—how short my shadow, beside that of these giants of the field.

I walked about the heavy, severed stalks and noticed the moisture drip from each angling cut the corn knife made. It had a sweetish odor, canelike and sweet to taste, for I stooped and placed my tongue upon the largest, cleanest whitest centered stubble. It was so delicious that I tried a second time.

The soil was dark and damp from recent rains. Field crickets chirped and hopped about in droves. Fox tail or fall grass stood high and stroked my arms and waist with dark seeded heads. The wild coxcomb and jimson weed had found luxuriant growth in this same field.

Surely it is autumn, for along the old worm fence, bittersweet bears yellow bursting berries, the four red quarters popping out to the mellow sun. Westward at the farthest corner, a gum tree has a whole spray of brilliant scarlet, accented against the deep green background. The new spring coat of a cardinal or the tanager's flash of red in May, can be no more pleasing to an eye that admires the first rare flame of autumn.

Southward, on higher ground, an entire corn field stands with rows of shocks. Dark brown already, each individual is—humped and weathered. Crumpled, tattered blades flutter in the strong northern breeze. Threaded through these drying stubble run long weathered vines, and here and there, about the open spaces, the pumpkins, "spheres of gold" gleam in the shimmering warmth of mid-afternoon.

Three weeks more, and the land where lately the heavy corn crop stood, will be fresh green with thrifty winter wheat. And beside the husky rows of shocks will be thrown great heaps of golden corn. For "corn is king" in all our neighborhood and the long yellow ears fill a goodly portion of the autumn horn of plenty.

South Pacific told of new Japanese air losses in the Solomons. On Sept. 11, 16 planes were destroyed on the ground at the Kahili airdrome on Bougainville and seven out of 27 interceptors were shot down during an American raid. Eight other grounded planes later were destroyed or damaged by strafing fighters. Over Vella Lavella island, now occupied by the Americans, three out of 15 raiding enemy fighters were downed. American losses in these operations were three fighters.

Yank Leads Chinese On Successful Raid

NEW DELHI — (AP) — Chinese troops trained in India and led by an American routed a band of 200 Japanese in a daring foray into the wild Naga hills country of north Burma recently, it was announced today.

The Chinese were equipped at Lt. Gen Joseph W. Stillwell's Chinese-American training center and were under the command of Brig. Gen. Hayden L. Boatner, of New Orleans, La.

The raiders pushed on behind enemy lines and blew up supply depots and bridges along the Japanese communication route. A communique said Chinese infantry and motor units were active.

Heavy casualties were said to have been inflicted upon the Japanese before the raiding force withdrew. Chinese losses were reported as light.

(This is the first reported action involving Chinese trained at the India center and suggests expeditions on a still larger scale may be in the offing.)

Japs, Soviets In Border Clash, Report

WASHINGTON— (AP)—Speculation about a Japanese attack on Soviet Russia revived here today with unconfirmed reports from Chungking that a border clash—the first reported in some time—has occurred along the Mongolian frontier.

The Chungking report said the incident occurred north of Pailingmiao, a Japanese-controlled inner Mongolian desert settlement below the border of outer Mongolia, which is an autonomous republic dominated by Soviet Russia.

Pailingmiao is a strategic base position for the Japanese if they should be planning a lightning drive across the Gobi desert through Ulan Bator, the outer Mongolian capital, to cut the trans-Siberian line in the vicinity of Lake Baikal.

Eastman Orders Restriction on Truck Deliveries

WASHINGTON — (AP) —Restrictions on motor truck deliveries, in effect in the gasoline-starved northeastern states since last spring, will be extended to the entire nation Monday, Oct. 11.

Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, said the action "is the best means of safeguarding the public's interest."

The order, announced yesterday, bans retail deliveries of packages weighing less than five pounds or measuring 60 inches or less in length and girth combined; prohibits Sunday deliveries except for ice, milk or cream; and restricts to once a week retail delivery of alcoholic beverages, tobacco, confectioneries, soft drinks, ice cream, magazines and flowers.

Bread and bakery products, meat, poultry, eggs, fruits, vegetables and fish, may be delivered only three times a week. Laundries, dry cleaners and tailors are held to two trips.

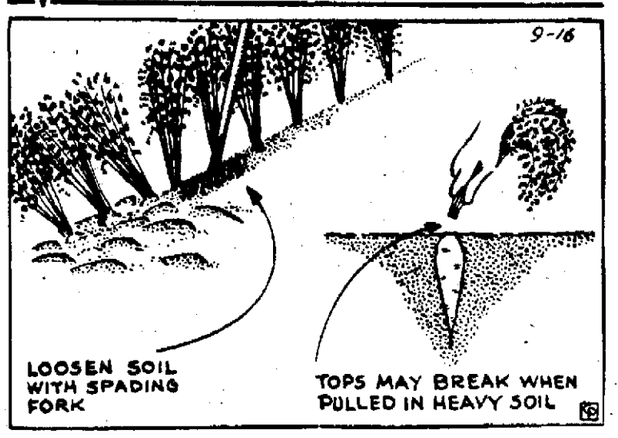
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Harvesting Victory Garden Carrots for Winter Use.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Ass'n.

Victory garden carrots can be easily stored in the home over winter, and will stay solid if properly harvested and put away.

If the soil in which your carrots have grown is clay, you will find it difficult to pull them without the tops breaking off at the soil level, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. If the soil is heavy, loosen the carrots a little with a spading fork, as illustrated, before pulling them.

Carrots may be stored in a storage room in the basement, in outdoor storage cellars, or in banks or pits. If you have a large planting, it may be advisable to place a small quantity in the storage room in the basement or in the storage cellar and the remainder in banks or pits. Carrots are not injured by slight freezing, hence they need not be covered as deeply as potates.

The ideal temperature for storing root crops, such as carrots, is around 38 degrees, never below 32. The atmosphere of the storage space should be kept damp, with a relative humidity of 90 to 95 per cent. Always allow for sufficient ventilation.

Randolph Field—"The West Point of the Air"—is a living monument to his vision. He conceived and organized the air force training center out of which grew the schools that have trained thousands of military pilots.

In piloting the first army airship—Drigible No. 1—Lahm was certified in 1908 as the first army airship pilot by the Aero club of America. As the result of his airship experience he became a member of a board that conducted tests of the Wright airplane purchased by the army in 1909. It was during this period that he rode in a plane as the first military passenger.

After the acceptance trials were completed, Gen. Lahm took pilot instruction and received the nation's No. 1 airplane pilot license. His instructor was Orrville Wri and with him Gen. Lahm made the first cross country flight—a 10-mile trip from Fort Myer, Va., and return.

Yesterday's sales totaled $802,815.75, nearly $500,000 more than any previous day. Largest purchase yesterday was $528,000 of two per cent treasury notes made by six subscribers. Nearly 600 subscribers paid out $49,856.25 for E bonds.

In the national picture today huge investments by insurance companies, including the largest bond purchase on record — $425,000,000 subscribed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company —shoved the seven day total to $5,059,000,000.

Washington reported the treasury appeared to be pleased at the way the campaign is going, although last night Secretary Henry Morgenthau, jr., spoke grimly about American losses in an effort to spur sales.

"This is the beginning of the war, as far as the United States is concerned—this attack we are launching in Italy," he said calling on America to put aside "criminal" over-confidence in victory and to "back this attack."

As an example of war's cost in materiel alone, Morgenthau declared our equipment losses in Sicily exceeded 50 per cent in some categories.

RAF GOES BACK TO BOMB BERLIN

Attack Follows Heavy Raids on Factories Near Vichy and Paris.

west of Vichy, was the principal target of the night-flying formations which concentrated on a factory supplying much needed tires for Hitler's war machine.

The Vichy radio said the town of Charters, scene of one of the biggest battles of World War I, also was attacked, but the British announcement made no mention of this.

Last night's raid, first since the Sept. 6 attack on Munich, followed by a few hours the first after-dusk assault by a combined force of American Flying Fortresses, Liberators and Marauders which raided the Paris area. Here the Hispana-Suiza and Caudron-Renault aircraft plants and a ball bearing works were the main targets.

At the same time German air raiders subjected suburban London to one of its severest bombings in months. Some casualties were caused in the greater London area but the only bomb which fell in the city proper dropped in a football field now used as a community garden.

The raid on Paris marked the first time that Fortresses, Liberators and Marauders had joined in the same operation in the European war theater and the first time they had gone out and come home after dusk. Brig. Gen. Frederick L. Anderson, commander of the U. S. Eighth air force bomber command, pronounced the experiment a success and presaging the possibility that they would soon team up with the RAF in bombing Europe by night.

Last night's operations cost the RAF eight bombers and two fighters, the air ministry said. One enemy plane was shot down.

While other night bombers were stabbing at Berlin and northwest German, RAF fighter squadrons attacked enemy air fields and transport targets in intruder operations over France.

There was no indication that the Berlin raid, apparently carried out by light Mosquito bombers, was anything like the saturation attacks with loads of 1,000 tons of explosives, the last of which was made against the German capital Sept. 4.

The burst of widespread activity in the past 24 hours ended a lull in the extensive Allied air activities against western Europe which followed the climax of an eight-day non-stop offensive against the continent a week ago.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Will You Make This A Day For Our Heroes of America?

Buy a bond today to honor someone you know in the service

Washington wept in his heart for his freezing troops—
And saw blood on the ice where shoeless feet had trod.
"A strong nation is not born of indulgence and ease."

Oh, heroes of America, who are abroad in the earth today,
Enmeshed in the hot and unreasoning machinery of war—
We would not have you know how we cling to our dollars—
Our cowardly, slacker dollars, while you die for us.

Franklin, Jefferson, Hamilton, Hancock, Henry—
"If a people hate war too much to risk all for freedom
At the drop of a hat—freedom will be taken from them."

Forefathers of America, who carried the fearful weight
Of a rebellion and a whole nation on your shoulders—
Who dared to face complete destruction—turn from the sight
Of our swollen bank accounts, and our little ideas
Of how few bonds pay the price of our rich inheritance.

Lincoln . . . with the great rugged soul of you suffering—
Risking the life of the Union to save it,
Help us to be a credit to ourselves—and to our children.

American heroes! Boys and men from farms and towns,
From stark cities, from plains and woods and mountains,
Who are laying your lives at our feet for our freedom—
Wait now . . . for the impact of this successful hunt
Which beats out from corners and vaults,
From dark and secret places, our dollars—too decent
To remain in hiding when lending them is our duty,
Our PRIVILEGE—and your due.

It's EASY to Buy BONDS

It's as easy to buy bonds as to buy shirts or socks. Go into any store or place that's an issuing agent. Pay your money—wait while the bond is typed out with your own name and address—and take the bond away with you. You pay $18.75 for a bond you cash in for $25 in 10 years—$37.50 for a $50 bond, $75 for a $100 bond, $750 for a $1000 bond. If you need your money before the bond matures you can get your money back with earned interest. Lend now for your future.

Whose War IS This?

This isn't the soldiers' and sailors' war. It's yours and mine. It's America—and all we stand for—that the Axis is fighting. That's you and me. We don't have to go to the front to fight—we can send our money. If we don't do that, we're coasting while others carry the fight at the front and at home. Everyone is either "motive power" or a drag on the war. Do all your share. In honor of a fighter you know—or know about—buy a bond today!

★ If you POSSIBLY can... you must buy a bond TODAY... else shame the collective heart of America. For today, all over the country, we all buy a bond in honor of a man or woman at war. Get tough with your money. Whip it out and make it buy bullets and bombs. Only slackers nurse slacker dollars. Send MORE of your dollars to war, to fight. Do it today, for this is AMERICAN HEROES day.

Little Dog Is a Big Top Big Shot

Students Down Enemy Planes In Movie Class

NEW ORLEANS—(U.P.)—Lightning streaks across a plane-spotted sky. Hissing bombs and ack ack punctuate the thunder. The machine-gun vibrates, pounded by concussion. Grimly, the height finder clings to a swooping enemy plane.

Then a bell rings. Class is over, machines stop whirring, a door opens. No Man's Land is only a large, gray-walled room at the Shell Beach Anti-aircraft Training Center on nearby Lake Borgne.

For two hours every day, student service men at the center go into ersatz battle. Polaroid training machines protect three-dimensional battle scenes on the walls. Equipped with special glasses, students fire gun-shaped machines at the shadow planes, their aim and amount of shots recorded by an electric eye. Sound effects simulate bombs, motors and bullet blasts. Even the gun vibrates mechanically.

The polaroid room, however, is only one movie in the center's triple feature. For their next class, men file into a darkened hall where night identification of vessels is taught. From motion pictures, they learn to recognize a distant gun flash or blinker light as a destroyer or cruiser, enemy or ally.

Their third show-house has the tongue twister name, "tachistoscope building." There, under the direction of stocky blond Lt. Norman Howell, former Kansas City attorney, men study films of enemy and Allied aircraft. Within four months Howell claims a student can distinguish all types of flying craft, whether miles away, half covered by clouds, or flying upside down.

Wonder Bread Publishes $1,000.00 Guarantee of Vitamin Tests

WONDER BREAD
WONDER BREAD
$1,000 GUARANTEE
The numerous analyses we have made of representative loaves of Wonder White Bread show in every case a Vitamin B_1 content equal to or in excess of the minimum requirement of Vitamin B_1 as recommended for bread by the Federal Food and Drug Administration.
We will pay $1,000 to any charitable organization named by the citizen of the United States first to disprove the above statement prior to December 31, 1943.
The Bakers of Wonder Bread

TODAY EVERYONE KNOWS you need all the vitamins you can get in available foods.

That is why vitamins have been added to bread.

But many women know that precious food vitamins are lost in cooking and baking.

In bread baking the loss of Vitamin B_1 can be from 6% to as much as 29%, as shown in recent tests.

"So how can you know what you are getting?" women ask.

Of course, no one can guarantee the future but Wonder Bakers can and do guarantee the accuracy of Vitamin B_1 tests that have been made as stated above. Our laboratory method has been checked with 32 other representative food laboratories.

Our tests this year show the average Vitamin B_1 content to be 15% more than the minimum requirements for bread set forth by the Federal Food and Drug Administration. These tests will continue.

While these analyses have been limited in their scope, we believe, because of our standardized method, that they are representative of all Wonder Bread.

This means that we are spending time and money to protect you from baking loss of vitamins in Wonder Bread.

Serve this richer, better bread today and every day for its generous food value and its precious vitamins. You'll be glad you did!

HELL AND HIGH WATER

CHAPTER XXIII

A man was standing beside a two-year-old steer he had been butchering. Jake Hickory faced her with a rifle in his hands. His dismay at seeing her was no less than her own. They stared at each other for a long moment before she turned to leave. Instantly the rifle covered her.

"Stay where you're at," he ordered. "Get down from that horse."

She hesitated. Would he shoot her if she swung around and bolted down the hill? He was frightened and his impulse would be to stop her. She dared not risk it.

"You can't touch me," she temporized.

"Get down," he repeated.

The girl slid from the saddle. He came forward, slowly. His black eyes swept the slope below.

"You're alone," he said.

"That doesn't matter," she answered. "If you harm me you'll not live twenty-four hours."

"I don't allow to let you give me away," he told her. "We'll go back into the hills."

The panic rose in her but she choked it down. She must not show fear. Just now he was not dangerous. He was thinking only of his own safety."

"I'll not go," she said.

"You'll go if I have to rope and drag you," he retorted. "Don't try the Miss Broderick stuff on me. You're just a gal who butted in and learned too much."

"Every cowboy on our ranch will be looking for me in two hours."

"Yeah, and if I let you go they'd all be lookin' for me," he jeered. "It ain't going to be that a-way."

"What will you do with me?" she asked quietly.

"We'll hold you, till we're ready to light out. Think I'll let you hotfoot back and set the hounds on us?"

"I'll give you time to get out of the country before I say a word."

He laughed raucously. "I'm not an idjit. We'll start soon as I've packed the meat."

"If you make me go with you, this whole country will rise up to stamp you out like a rattlesnake," she warned.

"I'm playin' this my way, the safe way," he replied. "We'll be outa this country before yore friends know you invited yourself to our feast."

Hickory forced her to lead the horse back to where his big bay was standing but he did not notice that she dropped a handkerchief. "Doncha make a move to get away or I'll gun you sure," he warned. He packed a hind quarter of the beef in a gunny sack and tied it back of his saddle.

They rode into the hills. The girl felt a sense of physical contamination. She was a lovely young creature and the quarter-breed an ugly hulk of a man, unwashed and unkempt. He towered above her. Though she did not look at him, she knew that he was leering down at her with that hungry possessive look which she had noted in a quick glance.

Long before they reached camp she had lost her sense of direction. The sun had dropped back of one of the hills and was no longer a guide. Soon night would settle over these bad lands. With its coming she might as well be a thousand miles from all her friends. Something cold and hard like an icy fist tightened in her stomach.

They traveled up draws and across hills into winding gulches. They emerged upon summits that dropped to little parks leading to other accents. Long after dark they looked down on the light of a camp fire. Hickory hooted like an owl twice. Somebody by the fire waved a lighted stick.

The way down to the creek was precipitous. The horses ridden by Willie May and Jake slithered down, sure-footed as cats. At sight of two mounts a man at the camp gave a cry of surprise. His harsh voice rang out:

"Stop right there."

"S'all right, Bart," Jake called. "Jest a li'l lady I picked up coming to visit us."

When the girl rode into the light there was a moment of shocked silence.

"Great jumpin' Jehosophat, Miss Broderick" ejaculated Rush Greer.

Willie May looked from one to another of the three staring men. The others were Cass and Bart Hickory.

"What you bring her here for?" Bart demanded angrily of his older brother.

"She bumped into me while I was butchering a JAB steer. Couldn't let her run home and start a passle of posses to combing these hills, could I?"

"We don't want her here," Cass spoke up. "We ain't fighting women. Did you have to bring her to the camp?"

"Where else could I take her?" Jake snarled. "Mebbe you would have toted her back to J. B. and told him here was his li'l gal, all safe and sound. Well, I wouldn't. She'll stay right here with us till we pull our freights outa this country, which will be tomorrow night."

Bart shot a question at their prisoner. "Anybody know you were coming up to the rim rock?" he inquired gruffly.

"I told the stable boy. Bob Lee heard me. You'd better take me back to the rim rock and turn me loose. I'll not tell anybody I've seen you — not till you've had a chance to get away."

"Why in Mexico did you ride into these hills alone, if you did?" Bart asked suspiciously. "It just don't make sense."

She could think of no better reason to give than the truth. Bob Lee had got her father to forbid her to ride off the ranch. She did not like his interference, so she had disobeyed orders to show him he was not her boss.

"Interfering is the word for that guy," Cass agreed bitterly. "If it hadn't been for him we would have got off clear and nobody the wiser. I'd give a lot to get that fellow where I could cut loose at him."

"And he's not the only one who bogged us down," Jake contributed savagely. "There's the wise guy who had to leave tracks into Sunk Bayou where anybody could follow them."

The heart of Willie May turned over. If Bob Lee had told the truth she knew who had been responsible for those tracks.

The redbearded Greer remonstrated mildly. "No use getting sore at—at our friend. He's fixin' it right now for us to make a break from here. He'll be here tomorrow with the word as to which way it's safe to travel. We'd ought to have hit the trail earlier when he told us to light out."

"Why worry about him now?" Bart sneered. "If he throws us down we'll fix him proper. Right now we've got this girl on our hands. What are we gonna do with her?"

"She came here of her own accord," Jake said. "We didn't give her an invite. She's not going home to turn the wolves on us —not while I can prevent it."

It was not so much the words as the man's voice and manner that sent a chill down the girl's spine. He did not look at her as he spoke. His eyes slid away from those of his brother Bart.

The other men stared at him, reading the cruel meaning he did not want to put into words. It was in his mind that the safest thing was to destroy this witness and bury the body under a pile of rocks.

The redheaded bandit took up the challenge promptly. "Sure we'll take no risks we don't have to, but first off we're gonna see no harm comes to this girl. Why don't we take her back to the rim rock like she says and let her go home? We can get going ourselves tonight."

"No." Bart shook his head. "We've got to wait till—till our friend gives us the tip which way is clear. I reckon we had better talk things over, boys."

They left their captive by the fire while they drew back into the shadows and put their heads together in whispered conference. Once or twice voices rose in anger. The tortured girl knew she had one friend in the group, but she did not feel sure that he would stand out against pressure. Perhaps Cass Hickory might side with him. He had said they did not war against women. But Jake was the most dominant of the four. He might persuade the others. If they would only wait till Hiram Sugg came. Surely he would not let them destroy her, if the balance tipped that way.

Her hope shifted from Sugg to her father, then to Bob Lee. No words came from her lips, but she heard herself crying, "Oh, Bob—Bob, come and save me." And she thought she heard his warm cheerful answer, "I'm on my way, girl."

From where I sit ...

by Joe Marsh

"Jeep Nerves"—that's what Dan O'Neill calls the jumpy way some folks react to the strain of wartime living.

Not that Dan blames 'em. When you work 12 hours a day and travel in crowded busses—live in trailers and put up with inconveniences - it's only natural to get tense and irritable.

"Folks must learn to relax," says Dan, "and take it easy."

And Dan thinks he has the formula. Soon as he's through at the shop he comes straight home, picks out the comfortablest chair and pours himself a tall, cool glass of beer.

Then he sips it - slowly and appreciatively - like good beer should be enjoyed.

And by the time that glass of beer is gone, Dan says his disposition is as good as new . . . and the day's work seems well worth tackling again tomorrow.

It's a real effective formula. I know; I've tried it!

THE American Legion Auxiliary Bridge club met at the Legion home Tuesday evening with Mrs. Don Fisher as hostess. Mrs. W. M. Bonnell and Mrs. W. H. Henry won high score prizes. The next meeting will be held Sept. 28 with Mrs. Virgil Hageman as hostess.

Nuptial Party Given In Honor Of Brides-Elect

Another in a series of pre-nuptial parties in honor of the Misses Ethel Mae Bogan and Patricia Oberlander was held last night at the home of Miss Marjorie Scott, 75 Helen avenue, with Miss Frances Brown as associate hostess.

At the beginning of the evening the two honorees were sent on a scavenger hunt throughout the house in search of their gifts. Miss Oberlander was feted with many gifts while Miss Bogan was presented with personal gifts.

Miss Jeeanette Werner, president of the Zeta chapter of Tri Gamma sorority presented Miss Bogan with a gift of crystal from her sorority sisters.

Bridge was played throughout the evening with prizes being won by the Misses Joan Watson and Lillian Art.

Luncheon was served at the close of the evening, at a long candle lighted table decorated with lavendar fall flowers and lavendar and white favors. Miss Mariann Cusic, sister of the prospective bridegroom of Miss Bogan, poured.

Miss Bogan and Cpl. Gene Cusic will be wed Saturday at Bear Field chapel in Fort Wayne, Ind. Miss Marjorie Scott will accompany Miss Bogan to Fort Wayne, where she will be her wedding attendant.

Miss Oberlander, bride-elect of Pvt. Robert Henry of Fort Bragg, N. C., will be wed in early October. The date of the wedding depends upon Pvt. Henry's furlough.

Oily to Bed

BEAUTY OILS help tone dry, sun-tanned skin.

By BETTY CLARK
(AP) Beauty Editor)

That sun-tanned skin of yours, that may be looking dried out and leathery about this time, probably needs oiling to restore it to its natural pink and white smoothness.

Fragrant oils, history tells us, were used by Cleopatra, Helen of Troy and other beautiful Grecian, Roman and Egyptian women after the bath ritual to help keep bodies supple and smooth.

There are four new oils to be used on the body, face, eyelids and lips that should help give a soft, natural glow to sun-dried skin. Mme. Elsa Schiaparelli, famous French couturiere, says she has been using these oils for years.

After bathing and drying the skin thoroughly, the scented body oil is applied with cotton. The face oil helps to remove makeup and grime and when removed with tissue should leave a satiny, smooth texture. The remainder can be used as a makeup base. Or for that outdoors look, powder can be omitted and a touch of lipstick is all that is needed.

For the delicate skin area about the eyes, the eyelid radiance oil is applied with the fingertips to give a dewy-eyed look. It can also be left on overnight.

The lip radiance, to give that transparent Hollywood lip look, is used sapringly over the lipstick and the excess blotted. It is suggested for use on the lips at night to keep them smooth and as an added protection against winter winds.

Oiling your skin will help to ward off premature crowsfeet, wrinkles and scaliness and that flaky, dry-skinned winter look.

Rho Chapter, Of Chi Sigma Has Business Meeting

Rho chapter of Chi Sigma sorority held its first business meeting of the season Tuesday night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Miss Mary Lou Hout presided at the session when the chapter decided to send Mrs. Clifford Heaton to Little Rock, Ark., to the Province convention.

Miss Hout read a letter from the national president, acknowledging the chapter's contribution to the blood donor's bank and announced that the national sorority had contributed $675 to the Red Cross for that purpose.

The chapter also decided to participate at the canteen for the soldiers and plans for this year were drawn up.

The election of officers was held and the following sisters will serve in official capacity for the coming year: Miss Thelma Hursh, president; Mrs. Harvey Willsey, vice president; Miss Marjorie Rhoads, secretary; Mrs. Robert Betz, treasurer; Mrs. Russell Porch, corresponding secretary, and Miss Helen Myers, sergeant.

At the next meeting, the chapter will have its formal installation of officers. The committee for this affair will include Miss Marguerite Speas, chairman, Miss Mary Butler, Mrs. William Mosey, Mrs. Clifton Smith and Miss Mary Strater.

Prospect Park Association Has Dinner Meeting

The Prospect Park association met last evening at Prospect park for a covered dish dinner with 54 attending. The committee in charge included Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Logan, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Orewiler, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Snerringer, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hartman and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vaughn.

Winners in 500 were Mrs. A. A. Hunter and Ed Hughes. Mrs. J. R. Logschon and Claude Zediker were pinochle winners while bridge prizes went to Mrs. Denny Schooley and Bob Mast.

The committee for the dinner Oct. 20 will be Mr. and Mrs. Dave Constance, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Jamison and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Grau.

Women's Club Has Luncheon Bridge Meet

Members of the Women's Club met at the club yesterday for a 1 o'clock luncheon, with Mrs. Phillip Corey in charge of all arrangements. Luncheon was served at small tables.

Twelve tables of bridge were in session. High score prizes were awarded to Mrs. George Faust, Mrs. J. D. Lindley, jr., and Mrs. W. L. Seemuth. The next card party will be held in December.

MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE.

The membership committee of the Moose women met last evening at the Moose home with 12 members present. Mrs. Kirk Ricks was a guest. The meeting was in charge of the chairman, Mrs. Clyde Jenkins. Mrs. Hazel Tupps reported on the Red Cross meeting. Club prizes were won by Gertrude Roth and Katherine Knackstedt. Mrs. Lena Gifford and Mrs. Mildred Baker will entertain at the Oct. 11 meeting.

Carpenter P. T. A. Holds First Meet

The first meeting of the Carpenter school P. T. A. was held at the school Tuesday with Albert Benson, president, presiding. Mrs. R. Y. Davis, chairman of the Carpenter school Garden club presented Mrs. Charles Siegenthaler, who awarded first prizes from the Brinkerhoff garden fund.

Prizes went to Shirley Jacobs and Robert Hawk. Honorable mentions were won by Marilyn Bell and Mary Prosser.

Mrs. Kalstein, president of the P. T. A. council was introduced by Mr. Benson. She presented John Lehman with a past president's pin in recognition of his services during 1942-1943.

Atty. John F. Kramer gave an interesting talk on the proper adjustment of children to their life situations and interests as a means of preventing juvenile delinquency.

The following officers for the coming year were announced: Albert Benson, president; Rev. C. L. Kern, vice president; R. Y. Davis, treasurer, and Miss Althea Lorentz, secretary.

Representatives to the P. T. A. council were appointed as follows: Mrs. Charles Mertler, Mrs. James Rice and John Lehman.

The standing committee chairmen are Mrs. Charles Mertler, Mrs. Cecil Cramer, Mrs. Lehman, Mrs. Alfred Van Auker and Miss Mildred Shively.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Missionary Society Meets

The Florence Welty Missionary society of the First Lutheran church met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. M. D. Harnly with Mrs. James Martin and Mrs. Jack Hooks as associate hostesses.

Twenty five members and five guests, Rev. and Mrs. Grover E. Swoyer and daughter, Rebecca, Rev. John Gensel and Mary Jane Drago attended.

Leaders in the lesson study were Mrs. Harold Elier and Mrs. Raymond Pifer, whose topic was "Protestant Women Working Together."

The Oct. 11 meeting place has not been announced.

Helpers Circle Meets at Church

The Helpers Circle of the First Lutheran church resumed regular business meeting at the parish house this week, with Miss Annabelle Shaniberger in charge of devotions.

During the brief business meeting, a rummage sale to be held in October was planned. The members also enjoyed a knickknack party.

The group made a contribution in silver and services to the Crestline canteen. Twenty-five members and one guest were in charge. The committee in charge included Miss Katherine Baughman, Mrs. Clara Stevick and Miss Ethel Witts. The next meeting will be held Oct. 5 at the parish house.

Mothers Hold September Meet

The September meeting of the Woodville Mothers club was held at the school auditorium Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. John Huber, the new president who succeeds Mrs. Robert Campbell, presiding.

Mrs. Richard Fisher has been appointed as the new vice president to take the place of Mrs. Huber.

The annual flower show was the main event of the meeting. Mrs. Dale Elliot won first prize. Second prize was awarded to Mrs. L. Hughes.

The topics discussed at the meeting included "How to Provide Warm Lunches for the Children" and the canning project for which members are donating home canned foods for the future use of the school cafeteria.

Refreshments were served and the mothers were entertained by Miss Marilyn Swisher at the piano and Miss Mary Jane Ewing, violinist.

REV. MILLION READS CANDLELIGHT SERVICE

Miss Louise Little Becomes Bride of Pvt. Marshall Ramsey In First Church of the Brethren at Lincoln Heights; Reception Follows.

MISS LOUISE LITTLE, daughter of Mrs. Nettie Little of Lucas, and Pvt. Marshall Ramsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hice T. Ramsey, 13 Flint street, were united in marriage Wednesday evening in the First church of the Brethren at Lincoln Heights.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by Rev. F. B. Million.

Piano music preceded the service and was played by Mrs. Vincent Kennedy. Mrs. Kennedy included "Because," by D'Hardelot and "I Love You Truly," by Bond, with the traditional wedding marches in her program. Rev. Harold Deeter sang "For You Alone."

The bride chose a frock of soldier blue, accented with brown accessories, for her wedding.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception for the wedding party, close friends and relatives was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Pvt. Ramsey is stationed at Fort George Meade, in Maryland.

Members Have Chapter Night At Moose Home

The first chapter night held by the Mansfield chapter of Women of the Moose took place last evening at the Moose home with 76 members in attendance at the session presided over by Mrs. A. K. Ricks, senior regent.

Mrs. Chester Brubach, publicity committee chairman, was in charge of the entertainment. The program was opened with a vocal selection "You'll Never Know," and a tap dance by Carolyn Pifer. The evening speaker, Paul Ritchie, spoke on functions of the municipal court.

Daronda Klein, accompanied by Carol Lee Blust sang "Song of the Island" and "You'd Be So Nice To Come Home To." Miss Pifer played "Nola" as a piano solo.

The evening's program were in the form of miniature newspapers. The 17 candidates wore pennants made from newspapers, with "candidate" written in the middle with red letters.

Last evening's candidates were initiated in honor of Mrs. J. F. Gresser, who has been Mansfield's senior regent for eight and one-half years.

The hall at the Moose home was decorated with arrangements of garden flowers.

Mrs. Brubach wore a lovely corsage, the gift of her committee members. The next meeting will be in charge of the war relief committee with Mrs. William Smith as chairman. That meeting will be held Sept. 29 at 7:30 p. m.

Croquettes Can Be Tasty From Sweet Potatoes

By BETSY NEWMAN

Sometimes the butcher says he can't give me a ham butt, but he can give me a slice or two of ham. This is what happened recently, and I took him up on it. If the same thing happens to you one of these days, try baking the ham and serving it with baked sweet potato croquettes. The ham is not exactly cheap, but we are entitled to a spree once in awhile.

Today's Menu.

Baked Ham Slice
Sweet Potato Croquettes
Corn Pudding
Raw Vegetable Salad
Lemon Rice Pudding
Coffee Milk

Sweet Potato Croquettes.

5 sweet potatoes
½ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. butter or other fat
⅓ cup chopped peanuts or toasted soybeans
1 egg, beaten
½ cup fine bread crumbs mixed with
⅓ cup irradiated evaporated milk

Select potatoes with smooth skins. Wash and boil until just tender, peel and mash. There should be 2 cups mashed potatoes. Add salt and egg; then add sufficient milk to moisten so that mixture is easy to handle. It should not be too soft. Add nuts and shape into croquettes. Roll in buttered crumbs, dip in evaporated milk and roll again in crumbs. Pat into shape, put in baking pan, and bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) until crumbs are a delicate brown, about 5 minutes. Makes 12 small croquettes, 6 servings.

Lemon Rice Pudding.

½ cup rice
1 qt. milk
½ tsp. salt
3 eggs, separated
Grated rind of 1 lemon
2 tbsps. lemon juice
½ cup sugar

Boil rice in milk until very soft, add to it while hot the yolks of the eggs, sugar, grated rind of lemon and salt. Turn into pudding dish, beat egg whites very stiff, add lemon juice gradually, and top pudding with meringue. Brown in oven. Serve cold.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DUPLICATES VS. RUBBERS

There are many close differences between the play in rubber bridge and match point duplicate, as well as between the bidding of the two games. It extends to the defense as well as to the offense. In rubber bridge, every effort must be expended by one side to make its contract, and by the defenders to defeat it. In match point duplicate, however, the risk of giving the declarer an extra trick must not be assumed if you think the chance of beating the contract is very remote.

Pass	3 ♠	Pass	6 NT

That reverse bid of 3-Spades by North was the tip-off to South that the 3-Clubs call had not been based on weakness. It showed up East's weak opening bid so badly that West did not even open the suit. He decided instead to try to kill North's club suit by knocking out its side entry or entries in spades. His lead was the fourth-best 2.

South saw a certain 12 tricks in sight, he reckoned, and a chance for all of the tricks if East could be induced to lay off with the heart A in case he had it. So he won the spade lead with dummy's K and promptly led the heart 8. East visualizing South as possibly finessing a J to a Q held by West, played low, and the K won. East felt that two heart tricks by his side might beat the contract.

After this, South took the spade A and Q, the club K, J, A and Q, the spade J and then the club 10. East had been pared down to the heart A and three diamonds. He was squeezed, but of course did not discard the heart A and make the Q good. Instead, he picked the daimond 10, whereupon the diamond Q was finessed, the A dropped the K and the 9 took the thirteenth trick for South.

Tomorrow's Problem.

How would you play for 4-Spades on this deal after West leads the diamond 2 to East's K?

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

Ronald started as if he had been suddenly prodded with a stiletto, and his haunted eyes opened, fixing themselves upon my father.

"A letter to Carolyn?" he repeated. "What do you want me to say?"

"Very little. We'll reveal everything that's necessary to her when she arrives," my father said. "Just tell her to get ready for an immediate trip down here, and to be ready to start at a minute's notice. I will get in touch with the dean of women, with whom I have an understanding." My father smiled slightly, and I knew he was thinking of the safeguards his position had enabled him to place around this feather-brained friend of Marion's.

Carolyn to Be Guarded.

"Tell Carolyn the dean will notify her that I wish her to come down, and will send a trustworthy woman with her, so that we will not have to spare one of you. I also will have a guard unobtrusively in the background every inch of the way. But do not tell Carolyn that. Simply tell her a woman will come along with her for protection."

He paused for a second, then went on, with his infinite attention to detail.

"Tell her," he resumed, "to arrange with some friend to get her letters and forward them at once, special delivery, here. Then tell Carolyn to write to your mother immediately, saying that she will be very busy with special examinations or something of the sort for the next few days, and that therefore she won't be writing many letters. She also could make arrangements with this friend to forward to your people any letter Carolyn might write them and send to her, so that they would not suspect Carolyn was not at Weirhampton. Now, I think that covers everything. Have you caught everything?"

"I think so, sir," Ronald replied, and I could see that his spirits had been distinctly lifted by the prospect of something definite to do.

"Then," said my father, "I shall be glad if you will write that letter immediately. Mary, you have writing materials in your desk, have you not?"

"Oh, yes," she returned. "Just take anything you see, Ronald."

"Thank you," Ronald said, rising and going to the desk.

"Then," my father went on, getting up from his chair, "I should like you, Richard, to come back with me to Margaret's apartment. Margaret, if you will go with Mary into the next room, I should like you to work out some messages with Mary that we can put in the personal columns of the newspapers without her captors suspecting anything if they should chance to read them. They use those columns, you know."

He turned to Noel with a smile.

Gives Noel Assignment.

"'They also serve who only stand and wait,'" he quoted "and just now, I'd like that to be your role. If you'll just stay here with Ronald, so you can answer any telephones or calls, I'll be very grateful. Just convey to anyone calling that we're all very much engaged. You'll have to use your own judgment on what messages to deliver."

"I'll do my best, sir," Noel said simply, but I guessed he knew, as did the rest of us, that his assignment was really to see that Ronald was not left alone with his torturing fears for Marion.

"I know that, lad," my father answered. Then he moved toward the door.

"Ah, Richard; right with me, I see," he said appreciatively, as my husband stationed himself beside him. "And we're on our toes, too. Grandpa Spencer," Mary said with a saucy grimace at him, as she and I moved toward the bedroom door. I think sometimes Mary will wrinkle her nose at Gabriel when he sounds the last trumpet.

"I know that, my dear," my father said, smiling at her, and then he and Dicky went on out of the outer door into the corridor. Mary and I went into the bedroom, and looked at each other with sudden tense attention as the door closed behind us.

"I don't know how you feel," Mary said, "but if I don't stretch out and unkink my nerves for a minute or two, I'm going to screech."

"I could do with a little unkinking myself," I told her smiling, so we settled down to lounge for a few moments in opposite chairs, with our legs and feet sprawled in comfortable but inelegant fashion.

"Shut your eyes!" Mary adjured me in a whisper, "and don't even think for two minutes. Then we'll tackle that 'personal' business."

I obeyed her, wondering if she might not drop off to sleep unheeding. I relaxed, but counted seconds to myself. Mary, however, must either have counted also, or else she called on her marvelous sense of timing, for when two minutes had elapsed, she pulled herself into a sitting position and drawled:

"Do you happen to remember how those 'personals' were addressed?"

Tell Adopted Child Truth, Says Dr. Myers

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

With "war babies" added to the number available for adoption the need of telling the adopted child about being adopted grows.

If you have an adopted child over two or three years of age and have not told him that you are not his real mother, you should do so as soon as reasonably possible, if you would avoid the tragedies of many of those adopted children who were not told when they should have been.

Telling the Child.

Start early to tell your adopted child he is adopted, even long before he is able to understand much about it. Tell it in a matter-of-fact way. Repeat the telling from time to time until you are sure it has registered in the youngster's mind. Then explain that you adopted him because you wanted him for your own little boy and loved him more than any other little boy in the world.

Whether you should say much about his real mother then would depend upon the nature of the facts, as you can see. It would be fortunate if you could truly say you don't know where his real mother is.

Should your adopted child be much older than two or three, you ought to tell him just the same. Do it at a moment when you and he are wholly calm and companionable, preferably with your husband present. And if, later, your adopted child should develop some undesirable traits or be hard to manage don't get it into your head that he inherited his behavior from either of his real parents.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. My daughter five will come in from play many times a day and ask me what I am doing. She knows the answer before she asks me, because she asks me what I am doing and she can tell me. I sometimes lose my patience when she persists. Some days it seems she asks millions of questions.

A. I hope you go patiently on anwering that child, nevertheless. She wants to have you say something and this is her way of doing it. See the opportunity for companionship for both of you this affords.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, September 17

According to the lunar transits of this day there may be confusions and perplexities in business affairs, in which there may be discord or want of co-operation from employers, elders or others whose endorsement is imperative to the successful development of issues at stake. Endeavor to meet amiably all opposition and be sure to abide by accepted rules and regulations. Changes may bring benefits, with quick definite action.

Those whose birthday it is may be obliged to make changes and reversals in their plans and objectives in order to reap desired returns, for decisive and constructive enterprise. There may be opposition or friction with those in influential positions, and these should be placated or met on a basis of accepted rules and regulations. But yielding judiciously may bear results. In social, affectional and domestic associations there is forecast of pleasant and profitable contacts.

Try this salad in a biscuit-basket, baked with enriched and unrationed Pillsbury's Best.
Pillsbury's PARTY POINT-SAVERS
TEMPERATURE: 450° F. Serves 6 TIME: about 12 to 15 minutes
- 1⅓ cups sifted PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched FLOUR
- 2¼ teaspoons baking powder (or 1¼ teaspoons double-acting)
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon celery salt
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- ⅓ cup shortening*
- ⅓ cup milk, about
- 1 quart (4 cups) vegetable combination (lettuce, tomatoes, green pepper, cucumbers, onions, carrots, cooked peas and beans)
- Salad dressing
- ½ cup grated nippy cheese

1. Sift flour once, measure; add baking powder and seasonings; sift again. 2. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse meal. 3. Add milk; mix only until all flour is dampened. 4. Knead gently on a lightly floured board for a few seconds to smooth dough. 5. Roll dough out to about ⅛-inch thickness. Cut into six 4½-inch squares. Shape each square over bottom of muffin pan to form cup. 6. Bake in hot oven until done. 7. Turn vegetable combination into shells. Top with French dressing or other tart salad dressing. 8. Top with grated cheese and place under broiler (about 3 inches from heating element) only until cheese is melted, or omit this step and pour melted cheese over top. Note: These biscuit cups are excellent for creamed fish and meat dishes.
*Chicken fat, or any other mild-flavored solid fat, may be used as shortening.
Guaranteed Baking! Try this or any good recipe, using Pillsbury's Best. If you're not better satisfied than with any other all-purpose flour, Pillsbury's Cooking Service, Minneapolis, Minn., will refund the cost of all your recipe ingredients! With what flour could you be more sure?

TELEPHONE 4251-6

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON—This news about the American Fifth army at Salerno gives a far more somber cast to the future of the war.

It should put a stop to the silly business reported around here of government employes throwing up their jobs and rushing back home to get going in private life before the war comes to a sudden end. They will have a year, or two, or three. We may very well be all winter driving the Nazis out of Italy—if they do not drive us out.

Clapper

It is a battle for all or nothing in Italy. Hitler must keep us from using airfields around Rome from which to bomb his most modern war factories in southern Germany, which are out of reach of bombers from England. This is Hitler's opportunity to slash to pieces our best divisions and set us back for many months. Italy may well be a war of attrition and Hitler has more battle-experienced divisions near at hand to throw in than we have.

Our best way of saving the situation is to cut his lines by bombing. He has only one double-track railroad into Italy now—his jugular vein over the Brenner Pass. Now, if ever, Allied bombers must do their stuff.

So dangerous is Hitler's position in this respect that he may very well go into Switzerland and seize her routes into Italy. What is another neutral nation to Hitler? Switzerland is in mortal danger.

In face of this dangerous situation which may set the Allies back for months, Canada begins demobilizing 20,000 combat troops on the ground that the improved strategic situation permits it. That action has set congress off in a storm because it comes just as controversy over drafting fathers reaches a crisis.

It would be unfortunate if we are influenced in our decisions on the basis of what Canada does.

* * *

General Marshall and Admiral King are to state their arguments about drafting fathers before the senate military affairs committee today. It will be difficult, regardless of what arguments they advance, to convince many senators and representatives, and many others, that it is necessary to go on drafting fathers for the time being.

The main question is whether more soldiers can be used at the moment. We have many divisions that are trained and awaiting transportation.

Until transportation catches up with the divisions we have on hand in this country, there must be question about further stripping down industry now—which is what the drafting of fathers means.

Needed now are more troop transports, more landing craft, more of the items that make it possible to transport divisions and throw them against the enemy. And more bombers. With west coast bomber plants losing production because of manpower trouble, what might seem at the moment to have priority over drafting fathers, to add to the congestion of troops in this country.

It is true that replacements and special units must be provided. There is danger also that political motives might carry congress too far in restricting the power of the armed services to obtain necessary men.

The country has supported the army and the navy need to restrain their demands to what they can use.

* * *

But there is sufficient ground to indicate that at least a serious question arises as to whether the best interests of a balanced war effort would not be served by a temporary halt in drafting fathers and a corresponding push of manpower into the special types of production that will enable divisions already trained to be transported overseas to face the enemy.

'44 FOOD PLANS UP FOR STUDY IN WASHINGTON

Farmers Want To Know Who Will Run Show, Subsidy Payments Opposed.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Both the White House and congress took up the 1944 food output problem for minute explanation today, and perhaps some action to insure an adequate diet for the nation besides meeting huge foreign commitments.

Marvin Jones, war food administrator, accepted an invitation to outline for the house agriculture committee Monday his ideas for next year's farm program.

Chairman Fulmer (D-N.C.) said the committee and the farmers want to know "just who from now on will have the definite power" over the food output.

The food subject occupied the attention of President Roosevelt who met with his advisers and with leaders of the major farm organizations yesterday.

A 1944 program involving a somewhat lower level of guaranteed farm prices—and hence fewer government subsidies—may be the outgrowth of those discussions.

The farm leaders brought from the presidential meeting assurance, they said, that subsidies—which most of them oppose—would be used sparingly.

This assurance may indicate that the administration is planning to make some changes in its price support program.

The government aimed to guarantee farmers above-ceiling prices, buying at higher price and re-selling at a lower figure, taking a loss on the difference. Reports have been circulated that the administration planned to ask congress for at least a billion dollars to cover such losses.

The National Grange and the American Farm Bureau federation, as well as some congressional farm-bloc leaders, object to such a program. They asked for ceilings based on the support prices.

Officials of the War Food Administration (WFA) said that elimination, except in the case of a few special items, of supports in excess of ceilings to be the only way of meeting objections of the subsidy critics. The president, they said, is determined to hold the line on prices.

Latest official figures show that the general level of farm prices is 17 per cent above parity. Parity prices have been defined as those equally fair to producers and consumers.

NEW REDUCTION IN SUPPLY OF LIQUOR LOOMS

WFA Objects To Distillers Taking Two Weeks To Build Up Stocks.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A sharp cut in available liquor supplies was forecast today following the war production board's denial of a "distiller's holiday."

Major distillers were expected to make a further reduction in allocations to dealers and distributors in an effort to stretch dwindling inventories, thus heightening the scarcity of liquor on the market.

Some manufacturers previously have been limiting dealers to approximately 50 per cent of their 1942 purchases, it was said. The so-called "rationing" by distillers may be intensified. Present stocks of distilled spirits are estimated to be sufficient for about two and one half years.

Opposition of the war food administration was credited with blocking WPB's decision to grant a two weeks' "holiday" for the production of beverage alcohol.

Although a WPB spokesman said the action was due to a "substantial" increase in requirements for industrial alcohol, it was learned that WFA had opposed the so-called holiday on grounds of a "tight" corn situation.

Informed officials asserted that industrial alcohol stocks had been built up well beyond current needs and that the full capacity of the distilling industry, which was converted last October entirely to the output of industrial alcohol, is not now required.

One official estimated that future requirements can be met with from three fourths to five sixths of the nation's distilling capacity.

WPA was reported to have decided to release part of the distilling industry's capacity, when WFA objected. The industry then was informed that no beverage alcohol production would be permitted for the balance of this year.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—Mrs. Roosevelt is, I believe, the most influential individual leader, or patroness, of the youth of the United States but the quality of her following among the young people is a gauge or reflection on the quality of her leadership. She appeals only to a minority and to them she is, in fact, a heroine and an ideal but she has not attracted the others and those others in the main, find their leadership in their homes, even though many of them are far from home and some will never come back.

Pegler

The defect in Mrs. Roosevelt's leadership is that it is not idealistic, but political and material. Her followers interest themselves in "organization," parliamentary procedure and tricks and political tactics. They are the speech-makers and debaters, the pickets and politicians who join "groups" and compete for control after the manner of the professional party politicians who are forever compromising their principles and taking detours toward goals that are not ideals but mere advantages.

In Mrs. Roosevelt, American youth is offered an energetic and daring leader who sought them out when nobody else did, but one who is an active politician in a party which has often betrayed its own professional ideals. To think of Mrs. Roosevelt is to think of such as Senator Joe Guffey, of Pennsylvania, and the Hagues and Pendergasts and the second Louisiana purchase and the degradation of the ideal of government of the people by the people as an expedient justified by a desire for power and a zest for the game of politics. As youth is able to detect in the home unfairness, dishonesty and untruthfulness in this conduct of the parents, so youth in the nation cannot have been unaware that Mrs. Roosevelt has condoned, if she did not positively approve, actions by her party which violated the ideals and faith of young men and women.

As a party politician, Mrs. Roosevelt probably cannot do otherwise, for she would disrupt the plans of the party's leaders if she were to repudiate openly before the youth of the country, and for their moral benefit and inspiration, the routine connivances and schemes of ambitious and grasping men. But a party politician cannot personify the ideal of American youth and the true idealists among them, who constitute the great majority, are not inspired and encouraged but repelled by the camera-ogling and flippant semi-professionals of Mrs. Roosevelt's entourage.

At one stage of Mrs. Roosevelt's activity, Gene Tunney organized a rival "movement" to provide a haven for those yearning young ones who had come into personal and ideological collisions with the more resourceful campus veterans of her following. It amounted to little, however, because Tunney tried to lead youth in his spare time, so to speak, and his principal occupation was selling liquor, which is a legally and socially respectable trade, to be sure, but not idealistic.

Now they are at war, everywhere, the American youth who were in such need of inspiration and saving, and the ideals that they are fighting for are derived not from any debates or resolutions of that artful and youth-conscious minority, nor from the Atlantic Charter or the Four Freedoms, but from the example and teaching of parents in millions of modest homes. They have no one hero or heroine or ideal person but millions of them, most of whom, however, on the average, taught the same things. There may come out of this some idol, some beautiful knight who will personify all the virtues and beauties of character but if so that person must be one who will scorn compromise and expediency and stand forever in all things for exact fairness and justice at whatever risk or cost.

BUILD CABIN

Lincoln Heights Residents To Have Community Center.

Forty residents of Lincoln Heights attended a community meeting at Lincoln Heights school last night to complete plans for building a log cabin for community use by Boy Scout and Girl Scouts and other groups.

William Warner was appointed chairman of the building committee, and the men in the community offered their services in building the cabin.

The men will meet Sunday at the two lots purchased for the project to move the lumber on to the ground, it was announced today. Logs for the building are being donated.

Present plans call for a building 20 by 30 feet, and the Lincoln Heights residents hope to have it ready for use before snow falls.

R. M. Batson is chairman of the citizen's committee which completed plans for the project last night.

SCHOOL STRIKE PEACE SOUGHT

Toledo Board, Strikers Will Call For State Study; 40,000 Pupils Out.

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO — Agreement of the Toledo board of education and striking non-educational employes to call for a state study of the board's financial problems was seen today as a possible first step toward reopening of all public schools here.

Leaders of Building Service and Maintenance Workers unions said they would call union meetings to ratify the agreement although the 65 schools affected were not expected to reopen before tomorrow at the earliest.

The walkout began yesterday after union heads said the board of education refused to raise salaries to compensate for increased living costs. Although the Toledo Federation of Teachers did not take part in the strike, the AFL affiliate also has asked for salary increases. The board has said it's financial position would not permit raises.

Twelve hundred teachers and 40,000 pupils were affected by the strike.

The requested pay increases: chief engineers $400 to $3,000 a year; elementary school engineers $350 to $3,000; junior high engineers $400 to $2,880; engineering repair and maintenance men $360 to $2,760; and firemen and oilers $30 a month to $219.

3 CAPTURED

Youths Have Pistol, But Offer No Resistance.

AMANDA —(U.P.)— Three youths who escaped from the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster, about 12 miles northeast of here yesterday, were captured today by two officers from the industrial school.

The youths—Arthur Plau and John Steeds of Cleveland and Donald Alltop, Sabina — offered no resistance when captured although they were armed with a pistol stolen from a room of an institution official shortly before the escape.

Up and Down THE STREET

The Y. M. C. A. has not been called a morgue yet, but General Secretary Ralph B. Chapman admitted today that it will be "pretty dead place for the next week or two." The swimming pool has been closed for two weeks for cleaning and repainting, the gym is being repainted and all gym classes with the exception of the noon volleyball class have been suspended, and Physical Director John W. Fike is taking a week off to harvest his victory garden, Chapman reported.

He may not have the biggest sweet corn crop in Mansfield, but Myron D. Miller, 459½ Giessner avenue, grew the tallest stalk of sweet corn submitted in the county Victory garden contest. Miller's entry, which measured 10 feet and one inch tall, won first prize. All contest prizes have been awarded now except for the biggest pumpkin and winter squash. The entry list in these two classifications will be open until Oct. 1.

Mansfield youths in training centers in this country and in action overseas are learning that "it's a small world." Two aviation students who attended Senior high school together had the fact brought home to them clearly a few days ago in Montgomery, Ala. Riding on different trains and headed in opposite directions, Fred Elder, jr., and Jasper Stricker looked out the windows directly at each other as the trains passed slowly. Stricker was on his way to Norwich university in Vermont and Elder was headed for Drake university, Des Moines, Iowa. They were previously stationed at Gulfport, Miss.

THERE'S COFFEE TO BURN, NOW!

Importers Say Stocks Are So Big Once-Rationed Beans Must Be Destroyed.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — Coffee, that tasty brew, for which you had to surrender a coupon—when you could get it—will probably be dumped in New York harbor or burned because there is not room enough to store it.

This situation, one of the many paradoxes of this war, became known today as coffee importers pleaded vainly with South American shippers to halt shipments of the aromatic bean.

Within the short space of time since rationing of coffee was lifted, they say, shipments from South America have been arriving in such quantity that the country now has at least a four or five months supply on hand, with more coming every day.

Ships which formerly carried 30,000 bags now arrive with anywhere from 100,000 to 150,000 bags and, because warehouse space is at a premium, there is no place to store it.

Aggravating the situation, according to the importers, is the fact that the army has requisitioned considerable warehouse space inland which, in normal times might be used to store the excess. Coffee, they pointed out, can be stored only in certain places and under certain conditions to assure freedom from spoilage.

COLONEL FACES COURT MARTIAL

Aid to Deposed Commander at Selfridge to Be Tried.

SELFRIDGE FIELD, Mich. — (U.P.) — Lieut. Col. Charles G. White, 35-year-old executive officer for Col. William T. Colman, deposed Selfridge field commander, will go on trial tomorrow in the second court martial proceedings growing out of alleged administrative irregularities at the air base, Col. William L. Boyd, commander, announced today.

Court martial proceedings against Colman ended Tuesday when a court of nine colonels acquitted him of all but four charges of violating the articles of war. He was reduced in rank to captain and denied promotions for three years.

The charges against White, a former resident of Joliet, Ill., will not be announced until court convenes tomorrow.

ENTERS NO PLEA

Confessed Slayer of Twins to Be Given Counsel.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—Henry W. Hagert, 18, self-confessed slayer of James and Charles Collins, 13-year-old twins, entered no plea today at arraignment in common pleas court on the specific indictment of the first degree murder of James Aug. 12.

Judge Charles J. McNamee said that counsel will be appointed for the youth.
